WHAT'S LIFE AT G. W. . . . ?

IT'S . . . ADMINISTER

A student's job is from sun to sun, but a Profs' job is never done . . . Never? Exams . . . office hours . . . papers to grade . . . files to keep . . . handwriting to decipher . . . lectures to prepare . . . students to teach . . . administration work . . . those final grades . . . schedule difficulties . . . Oh, I just can't take Econ. and Poly Sci. at the same time . . . and on through the year . . . a job well done, but never won! Boy it's good to be a student.

A T I O N

I T ' S . . .

The Greeks have a word for it . . . the fun of house parties . . . pledging . . . the Panhel goat show . . . formals . . . athletics . . . bull sessions . . . Yawn, boy no sleep last night . . .
Books?? Who looks at them? They're all Greek to me!
. . . Fun . . . good times . . . lasting friendships . . . a guy and a gal on a sorority house steps . . . your roommates' radio . . . the college life you can't forget . . . it's still all Greek to me.

G R E E K S

You can't live by bread alone . . . you need the frosting on the cake too . . . an easy recipe . . . made by mixing . . . Fun while working for the school . . . Effort to produce something lasting and worthwhile . . . the thrill and satisfaction of reward . . . Yes nothing succeeds like success . . . it's the key to open any door . . . the door of knowledge . . . the door of initiative . . . the door of leadership . . . a key to be worn proudly . . . a common ground for socializing . . . a tasty snack to keep "George" going . . . the side of school when the books are closed . . . the taste treat that hits the spot . . . Anyone for desert?

I T ' S . . . H O N O R A R I E S

A N D O R G A N I Z A T I O N S

I T ' S . . . F E A T U R E S

There's a time and place for everything . . .
 a time for fun and a place for work . . . a time for parties and a place for the books . . . a time for spring weekend and a place for homecoming . . .
 a time for Beach parties and a time for formals . . . a time to sleep (at a hen party?) and a time for bull sessions . . . a time and place for everything . . . Everything happens at GWU
 . . . the Colonials have time for anything . . . well, naturally, GWU is the time and place for everything.
 Oops! It's later than you think.

IT'S . . .

"Raise high the Buff" . . . the thrill of that last second touchdown . . . an exciting basket in the nick of time . . . a homerun with the bases loaded . . . Let's have a cheer, gang . . .
two bits, four bits . . . wow, what a team . . .
A strong team is a winning team . . . sports build men . . . There's sports for everyone at GWU
. . . Therefore GWU builds men . . .
GWU is strong . . . GWU is a winning team . . .
"Raise high the buff and blue" . . . Oh well, wait 'till next year.

S P O R T S

I T ' S . . . S E N I O R S

"Success is not one grand and glorious feeling, it is adding up the days upon which good work is done." . . . Good work? . . . the bewilderment of your first days as a freshman . . . the close call in Chem 11 . . . the many hours spent behind the pages of a book . . . Exams . . . Labs . . .
 finals . . . your last days as a Colonial . . . Being a senior means hard work . . . hard work is good work . . . Graduation is the top rung of the ladder of school success . . . Seniors are the only ones who graduate . . . therefore, being a senior means you're a success . . . But, now I have to earn a living.

ADMINISTRATION

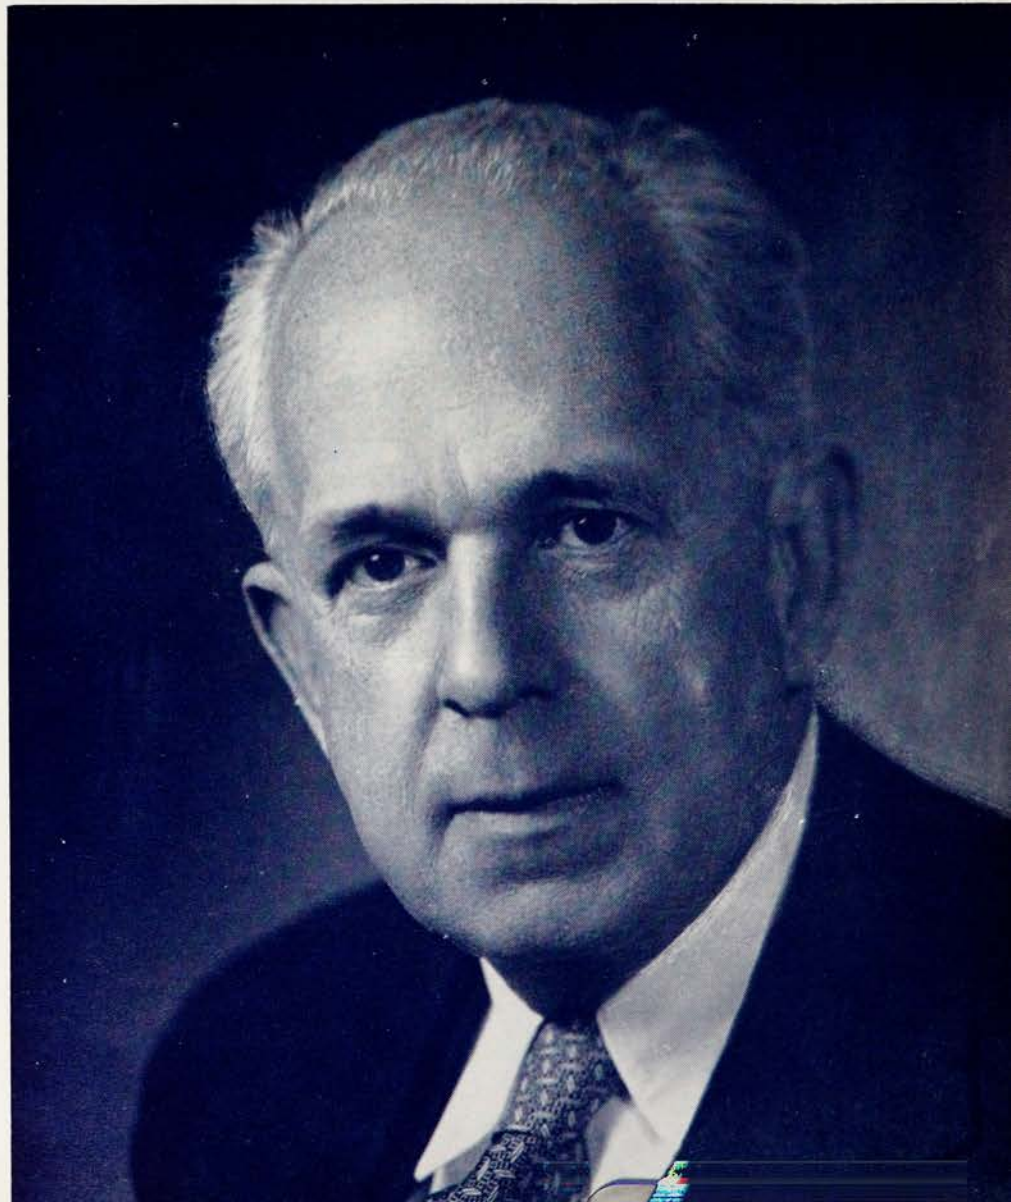

Cloyd Heck Marvin, President of The George Washington University has since 1927 given outstanding and consistent leadership to the University. This year marks the 28th anniversary of Dr. Marvin who has been a friend to both students and faculty.

During his years as President he has obtained complete accreditation of the University and recognition of its extensive graduate program. Dr. Marvin has guided the University in an expansion program both educationally and in size. 1955 brought the realization of further growth for the University, a plan which Dr. Marvin has sought after for the University's expansion.

The George Washington University carries out Dr. Marvin's belief in the place of a university in contributing to national and international welfare. A credit to both himself and the University, Dr. Marvin will long be held as an outstanding educator.

The Junior College, established in 1930, includes the first two years of the four-year academic course in the liberal arts and in sciences; two-year pre-professional programs, and two-year terminating curricula. At the completion of any of these programs, the College awards the degree of Associate in Arts. Junior College courses emphasize the cultural, social, physical and biological background of civilization and provide a foundation for the more specialized work of advanced studies. The Junior College also provides the pre-professional work required for admission to the Schools of Pharmacy, Education, Government and the first two years of the pre-professional work required by the School of Medicine and Law.

HENRY GRATTAN DOYLE • DEAN

The Columbian College offers studies in the liberal arts and sciences which lead to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science. The advanced work of the College leads to the Degrees of Master of Arts and Master of Science and to the awarding of the doctorate degree.

Founded in 1821 for the "sole and exclusive purpose of educating youth in English, learned and foreign languages, the liberal arts, sciences and literature, with full power to confer all degrees usually granted and conferred in colleges" the name "Columbian College" was given to the senior college of liberal arts upon its separation from the Junior College in 1930.

ASSISTANT DEAN LINTON

ASSISTANT DEAN JESSUP

ARTHUR EDWARD BURNS • DEAN

The School of Government was established in 1928 in order to bring together in undergraduate and graduate curricula the courses offered in the theory and administration of government and foreign service. This function of the School fulfills one of the original purposes of the University at the time of its founding: to provide training in both of these fields for its students. The location of the University in the nation's capital facilitates study for members of the School of Government.

The work offered by the School correlates social, economic, political, historical, psychological, and business studies to give the student a full understanding in the conduct of public office.

SCHOOL OF GOVERNMENT

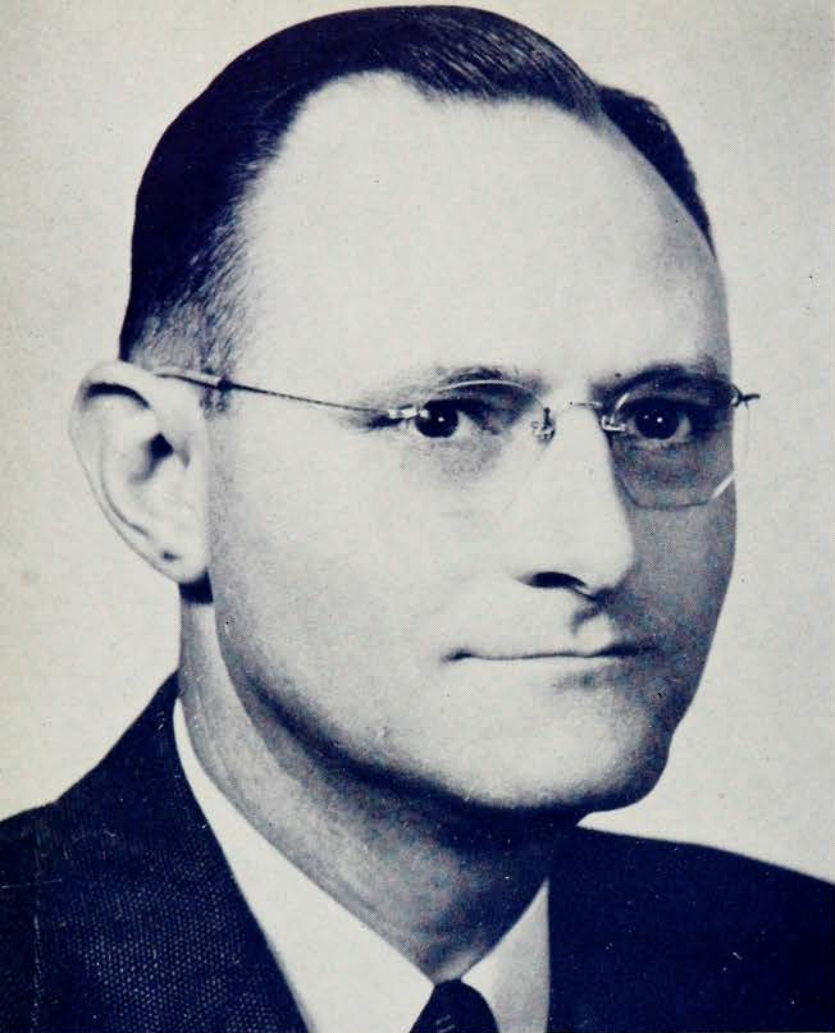

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

JAMES HAROLD FOX • DEAN

The School of Education offers undergraduate studies leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts in Education, Bachelor of Science in Home Economics, Bachelor of Science in Physical Education, and graduate programs which lead to the degrees of Master of Arts in Education and Doctor of Education.

The purpose of the School of Education is to prepare teachers, supervisors and administrators for higher ranges of educational service and to offer opportunities to experienced teachers for the extension of their studies. Programs for both full-time and part-time work are arranged to suit the schedules of the students.

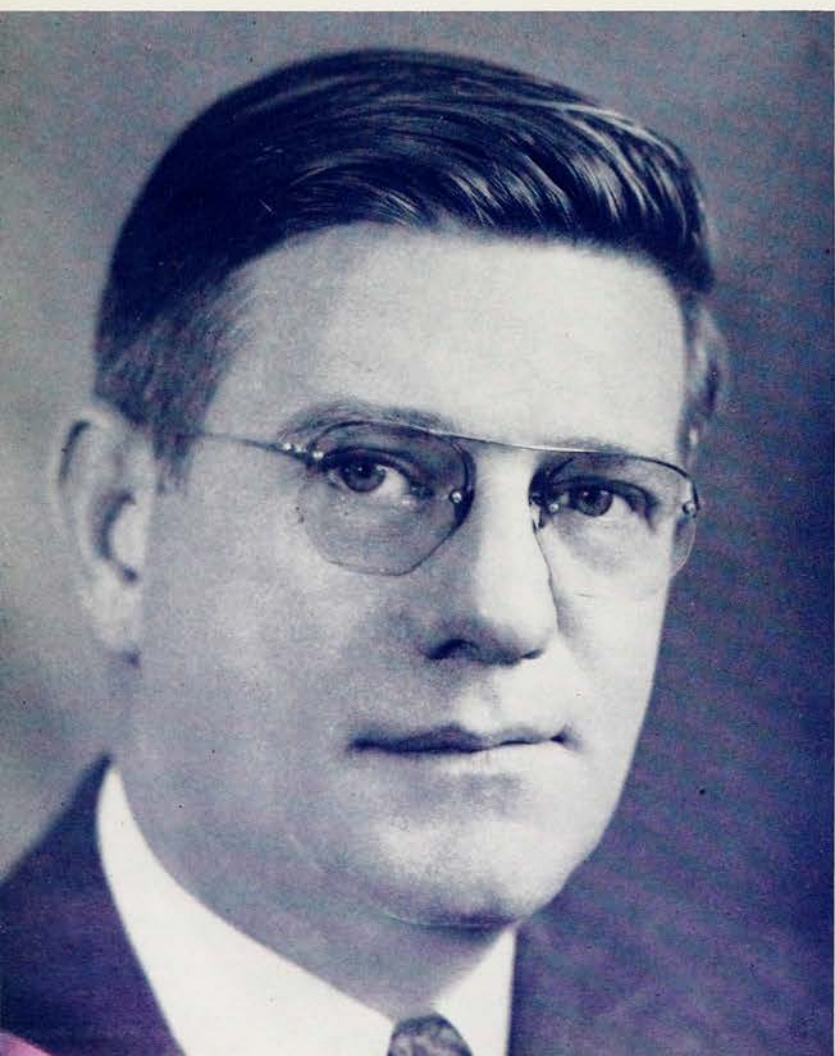

CHARLES WATSON BLIVEN • DEAN

The School of Pharmacy was affiliated with the University in 1906, after being founded in 1867 as the National College of Pharmacy by the Apothecaries' Association of the District of Columbia. It is accredited by the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education as a class "A" school, and holds membership in the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.

Students of the School of Pharmacy may benefit from easy access to the pharmaceutical museum, library and research laboratories of The American Institute of Pharmacy, which is located only a few blocks from the classrooms of the school. Current professional information is provided for pharmacy students by leaders in the field, who are brought to Washington by the Institute and the Federal Government.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

MARTIN ALEXANDER MASON • DEAN

The School of Engineering provides programs of study leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Civil Engineering, Mechanical Engineering and Electrical Engineering. The importance of the engineering programs further illustrates the development of specialized studies in the modern world.

Originally founded in 1884 as the Corcoran Scientific School, the School of Engineering was included in the Columbian College in 1903. The present name of the division was established in 1914. The School is recognized by the Engineers Council for Professional Development, the accrediting body of the profession.

ASSISTANT DEAN BENSON

ASSISTANT DEAN MAYO

JOHN T. FEY • DEAN

The School of Law, now in its 90th year, is the oldest law school in the District of Columbia. Its location near the seat of government, federal agencies and the Supreme Court provides University law students with the opportunity of observing law in action on a national scale.

The School was a charter member of the Association of American Law Schools in 1900, and has retained active membership in that organization. It is approved by the Section of Legal Education and Admissions to the Bar of the American Bar Association.

SCHOOL OF LAW

DIVISION OF SPECIAL STUDENTS

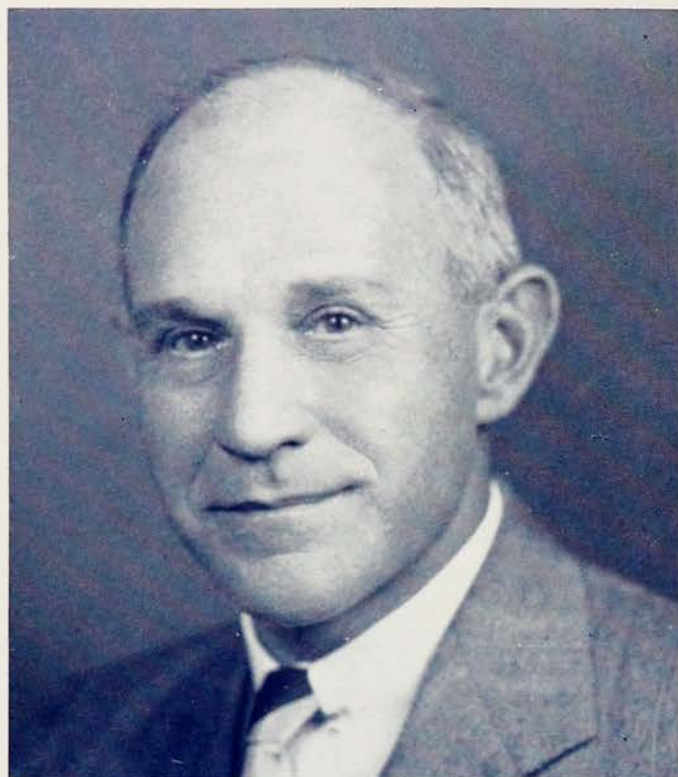

DEAN WARREN REED WEST

The Division of Special Students includes all students of the University who wish to qualify for degree candidacy. Individual attention is given to each special student in order that he successfully completes the work required for entrance into the college of his choice. Upon completion of entrance requirements and the maintenance of the necessary quality point index, the student may transfer to the school he has chosen to enter.

The Division of Special Students was established in 1944. Its increasing success may be noted in the rising number of students each year who qualify for transfers to other schools.

DEAN ELMER L. KAYSER

The Division of University Students is open to mature students who are registered in the University, but who are not interested in following a course of study which leads to a degree. University students may take courses either as auditors or for credit toward some future degree. The privilege to transfer to a degree-granting school may be extended to any University student, provided that he is able to meet entrance requirements of that school.

This important Division of the University was established in 1930.

DIVISION OF UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

COLLEGE OF GENERAL STUDIES

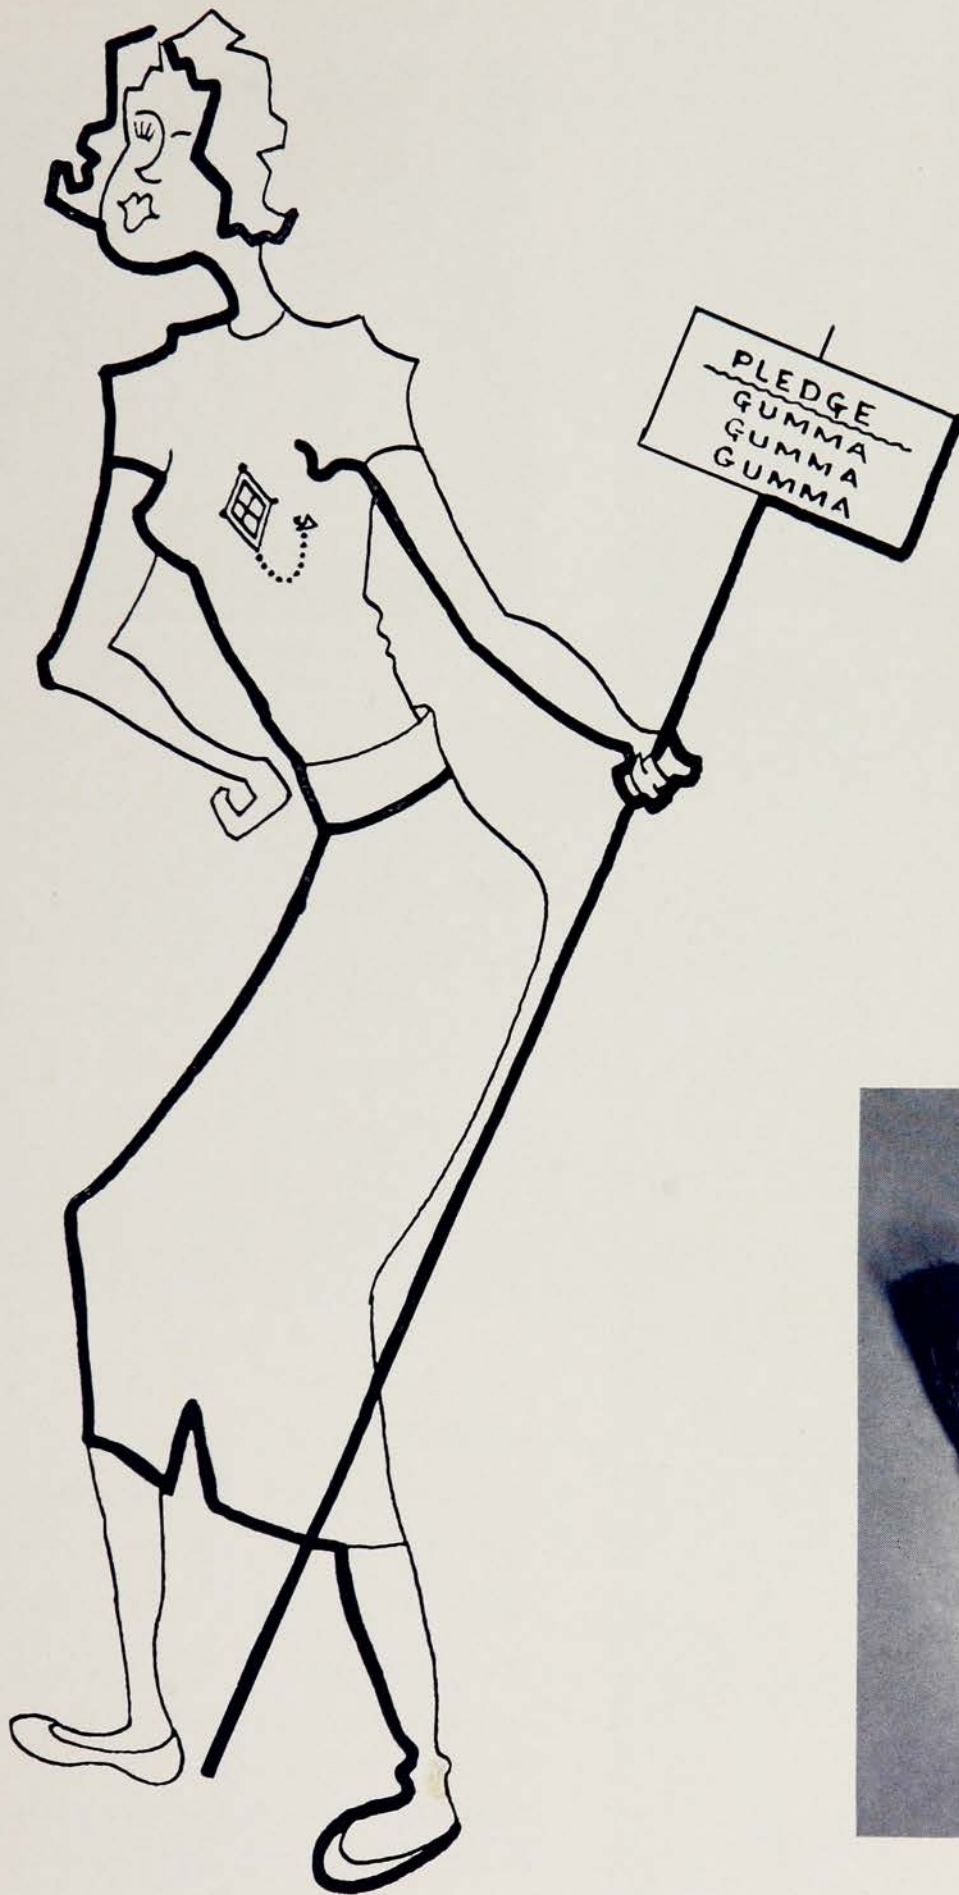

DEAN MITCHELL DREESE

The College of General Studies, established in 1950, is the most recent enterprise of the University. The College is designed to supplement adult education, and is made up of the On-Campus Division, the Off-Campus Division and the Division of Community Services.

At the University, the College of General Studies includes the Counseling Center and the Reading Clinic. The new division is represented away from the campus at such places as the Loudoun County, Virginia, Community College; the Red Stone Arsenal, Huntsville, Alabama; the Pentagon; Langley Air Force Base; and the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The officers of the Panhellenic Council and Miss Kirkbride, Director of Women's Activities.

The Panhellenic Council of The George Washington University is an administrative, legislative and judiciary body composed of the Panhellenic delegates, one from each sorority on campus, and the presidents from all eleven sororities. The Council's main aim is to promote cooperation among the sororities and intersorority spirit. Thus sorority activities are planned in a well balanced program. The first big project is the organization of rushing and membership selection. Then after pledging, the Junior Panhellenic is organized. Other functions include the Panhel Sing and Prom, two main events of the Spring Term, and an annual award to the chapter and pledge class with the highest scholastic average. Panhel also explains rushing to prospective rushees and lays out the regulations for rushing.

The Junior Panhellenic Council is made up of delegates from the pledge classes of all University sororities. It was organized by and works with the Senior Panhellenic Council.

The Council serves to promote intersorority relations, to uphold high scholarship among pledges, to cooperate with the University Administration and to find answers for any questions which sorority pledges may have.

The main project of Junior Panhellenic is the annual Goat Show, in which the pledge classes of all University sororities present short skits. The skits are based around a central theme chosen by the Council, and the Goat Show Cup is awarded to the winning pledge class. Admission for the Show includes one can of food per person, which is given to charity by Junior Panhellenic.

JUNIOR PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

Seated: Miss Buckley, faculty advisor; J. Powers, C. Frankfeldt, president; J. Fasset, S. Hennings. Standing: A. Gnotta, S. Sweadner, B. J. Johnson, N. Fitzgerald, E. Sebaugh, A. Weiss.

The Intersorority Athletic Board is composed of delegates from each women's fraternity on campus and an executive board.

The function of the Board is to plan and direct sports tournaments for campus sororities. The tournaments held are tennis, bridge, volley ball, table tennis, badminton, bowling, golf, and swimming.

The Board presents an individual trophy to the winner of each of these eight tournaments, and awards a large cup to the group with the highest standing at the end of the year. The trophies were presented by the president of the Board at the Women's Athletic Association's annual Spring Sports Awards Banquet.

INTER-SORORITY ATHLETIC BOARD

Seated: E. Schroeber, C. MacDonald, president, K. Denver. Standing: D. Bowen, C. Cronin, T. Tsangris, N. Beale, R. Irwin, M. Little.

FRATERNITIES

The Interfraternity Council is the coordinating organization for the social fraternities at the University. The Council is made up of delegates from all of the campus fraternities.

The purpose of the Interfraternity Council is to serve the individual fraternities in its membership, the University, the community and the nation. In the role of the governing body of all fraternity activities, the Council regulates and enforces rush rules, settles any questions on pledging or initiation requirements and designates the rules applicable to Intramurals.

The main event in the Council's year is Greek Week, which is sponsored and planned by the organization. This Week serves to strengthen interfraternity friendship and understudies. The start of the annual Greek Week is the fraternity officers' banquet, followed by forums which are offered for fraternity officers. Open Houses are held by the campus fraternities during this period, to which members of the other groups are invited. The two main highlights of Greek Week are the annual I.F.C. Sing and I.F.C. Prom. At the Sing, fraternities compete for the winner's trophy with two selections, including one fraternity song. The Prom is a much-anticipated spring formal, which may be attended by all fraternity men at the University.

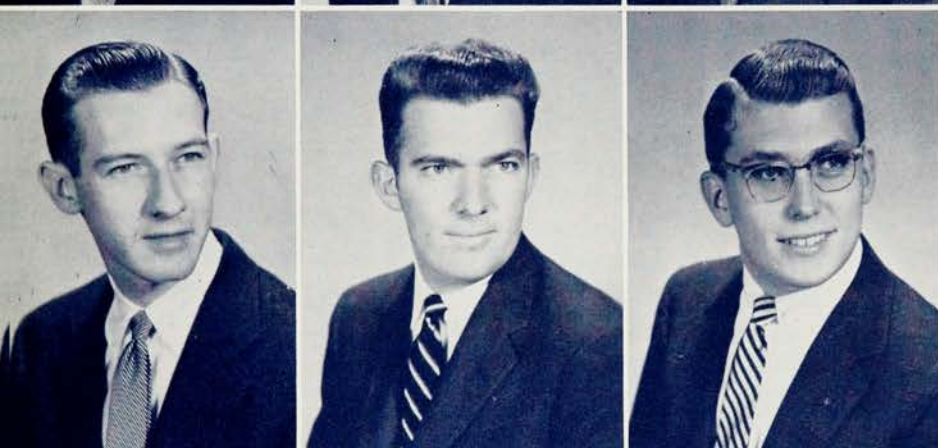

Howie Roberts receives the IFC Outstanding Delegate award.

MORTAR BOARD

B. Harvey, L. Anstine and C. Picton discuss Mortar Board's Last Lecture series with Prof. G. Gamow, the featured speaker.

Mortar Board, the senior honorary for women, selects its members on the basis of high scholarship and outstanding leadership in activities on campus. The year's program for the Hourglass Chapter begins with the tapping of new members at the annual May Day Assembly.

Mortar Board then begins planning for its activities in the following school year, beginning with members serving as ushers at orientation assemblies. During the first week of the term, they sponsor an information booth on registration days, take part in the Big Sis Coffee Hour, and tap new members for Tassels, the sophomore women's honorary. Mortar Board sponsors Tassels all during the year.

In December, immediately preceding the Christmas vacation, Mortar Board honors all junior and senior women maintaining averages of 3.0 or above at the annual Smarty Party. Carol singing is always a highlight of this affair.

The Outstanding Sophomore Woman of the University is tapped at the May Day Assembly, and is presented with the Mortar Board Award at that time. This year the organization sponsored the "Last Lecture" series.

The white jacket and black skirt of Mortar Board is recognized as the mark of quality in activities and in scholarship, and may be seen at the University on Mortar Board meeting or chapter activity days.

Omicron Delta Kappa is the national honorary for men at the University. Members of the organization must be in the upper third of their class, and are outstanding in the fields of scholarship, social and religious activities, athletics, publications, music, debate, and dramatics.

Members of the faculty are chosen for membership in O.D.K., on the basis of outstanding contributions to University life. Dr. Marvin, notable alumni, and active members of the honorary join new initiates semi-annually for chapter banquets.

Tapping of O.D.K. members takes place at the Homecoming Ball and at the Interfraternity Council Sing each year. Alpha Delta chapter initiations take place soon after the tapping ceremonies. New members are chosen carefully, so as to insure representation of all phases of campus life in the chapter.

O.D.K. is a service honorary, and helps to sponsor the annual "How To Study" Panel. The organization also takes an active part in helping to plan and execute the orientation program for new students.

The president of O.D.K. serves on the Student Life Committee.

DELPHI

Joyce Winegard explains Delphi business to Rosa Weiner, Eleanor Ready and Loydell Jones

Delphi, the sorority women's honorary organization, is composed of members of all women's fraternities at the University. The members are chosen by the sororities and by the active chapter of Delphi. Requirements for membership in the honorary are outstanding contributions to sorority life on campus and to individual Greek organizations.

The purpose of Delphi is to promote intersorority spirit and to contribute to the social life among Greek women.

Delphi's calendar is filled with many activities which are indispensable to the success of University sorority life. Included in the organization's yearly program is the handling of both Fall and Spring rush registration. At the Big Sisters "Tips 'n' Tea with Topnotchers," Delphi sponsors a fashion show for the benefit of new women students.

After the Fall pledging date, Delphi provides a pledge workshop. At this time the rush system, the universality of Greek organizations, and the advantages of sorority life are explained and are discussed by new pledges.

Delphi arranges and promotes intersorority exchanges between Greek groups throughout the school year. These affairs usually take place during the lunch hour and may be held by an entire chapter or by a pledge class. The functions are important to the development of pan-hellenic spirit and friendship among Greek organizations.

Gate and Key honors fraternity men on campus who have made outstanding contributions to the Greek world as a whole and to their individual fraternity chapters. The purpose of the organization and the responsibility of each member is to uphold the ideals of fraternity life and to work toward the improvement of the entire fraternity system. Gate and Key is also noted as a social group at the University.

New members for the fraternity are proposed for membership by their own fraternities and are then elected by the active chapter of Gate and Key. Tapping ceremonies are held twice a year at the Homecoming Ball and at the Interfraternity Council Prom.

The presentation of the Order of the Lacy Garter is made by the Gate and Key president during the spring. This award is given to one girl on campus in honor of her contribution to University life.

Gate and Key was founded here at the University and now has been adopted by several other universities and colleges. Chapters are found at Maryland University, Penn State, and William and Mary.

Tassels is the sophomore women's honor society and is under the parental security of Mortar Board, the senior women's honorary.

Members of Tassels are selected according to high scholarship and leadership ability. Probationary members who lack campus activities are required to have an average of 3.0 or better. An average of 2.6 and participation in two or more activities is required of regular Tassels pledges. Tapping of new members takes place each year at the Big Sisters "Tips 'N' Tea with Topnotchers."

Tassels adopts a project each year in an effort to help activities at the University. This year the group provided publicity for campus events.

Alpha Lambda Delta is the University's honorary for freshmen women. There are chapters of this organization all over the nation.

To become a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, one must achieve a 3.5 quality point index or above in her first year at the University. At the end of every year, the group presents Senior Certificates to those women who have maintained the 3.5 average for four years. The honorary gives book awards to the women students with the highest averages each year.

Besides serving to promote good scholarship, Alpha Lambda Delta holds many social events, including receptions for new scholarship students.

SIGMA ALPHA ETA

Sigma Alpha Eta is the co-educational honorary fraternity for University students who are majoring in Speech Correction. It serves to broaden the members' knowledge of their field, and offers to them the opportunity of putting classroom theory into practical use outside the classroom.

At their meetings, Sigma Alpha Eta members hear speeches pertaining to their field by prominent people in speech correction work.

One of the main projects of the organization is the sponsoring of the speech forum for the annual Career Conference. Sigma Alpha Eta benefits from the help of University speech professors.

PHI DELTA GAMMA

Phi Delta Gamma is the only Greek letter fraternity open to women of all professions. Members of this organization are women who are taking graduate or advanced professional courses. High scholarship, outstanding character, a spirit of cooperation and leadership ability are required of Phi Delta Gamma members.

The purposes of the organization are the elevation of standards in graduate studies, the promotion of high ideals among graduate women and the improvement of the professional and social status of these women.

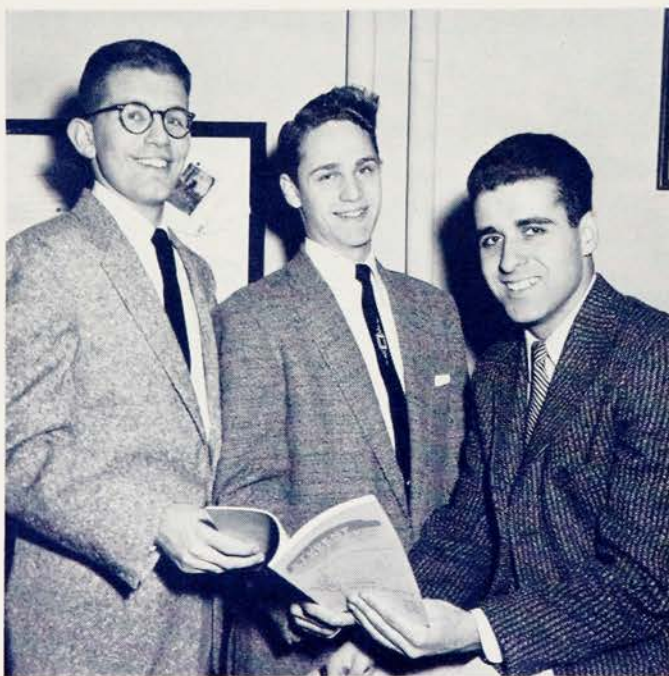

The members of Phi Delta Gamma have the opportunity of meeting women in the many fields of graduate study, and inter-group discussion is of value to all members.

PI DELTA EPSILON

President Ed Jaffee, Jerry Reinsdorf and Ernie Auerbach look at one of the student publications

Pi Delta Epsilon is the national journalism honorary fraternity at the University, and honors those students who have made outstanding contributions to University publications. Initiates to the group are elected to membership by the current chapter from the staffs of The Hatchet, the student newspaper; THE CHERRY TREE, the yearbook; and Mechelciv, the School of Engineering magazine.

The aim of Pi Delta Epsilon is to uphold the ideals of journalism and to promote cooperation among the publications on campus. Discussions on journalistic policy among the members of the honorary serve to benefit the leaders of all student publications, and help to solve any problems which may arise in any of the campus journalistic activities.

The fraternity sponsors the forum on journalism and public relations for the annual Career Conference. This forum is of great help to young people who are planning to make their careers in some phase of those fields.

Pi Delta Epsilon is now in its 33rd year at the University. It is the oldest collegiate fraternity for journalists in the nation. Our chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon is under the excellent guidance of Dr. Elbridge Colby, Executive Officer of the Journalism Department.

Pi Lambda Theta is the national women's honorary fraternity in the field of education at the University. The main purposes of the organization are to develop professional fellowship among women engaged in education and to foster professional spirit.

Pi Lambda Theta's aims also include maintaining the highest standards of scholarship and professional preparation, especially among women. In order to realize these purposes and to further the cause of democratic education, the group holds many programs during the school year toward those ends. The members of Pi Lambda Theta cooperate in the solution of problems which penetrate into various fields of knowledge.

Psi Chi, honorary and professional fraternity for psychology students, is open to both men and women. Eligibility for membership to the organization requires an over-all 3.5 quality point index.

Stimulating interest in psychology and increasing participation in research in that field are the primary purposes of Psi Chi. Financial and personal assistance are given by the group to actively aid those carrying out psychological projects.

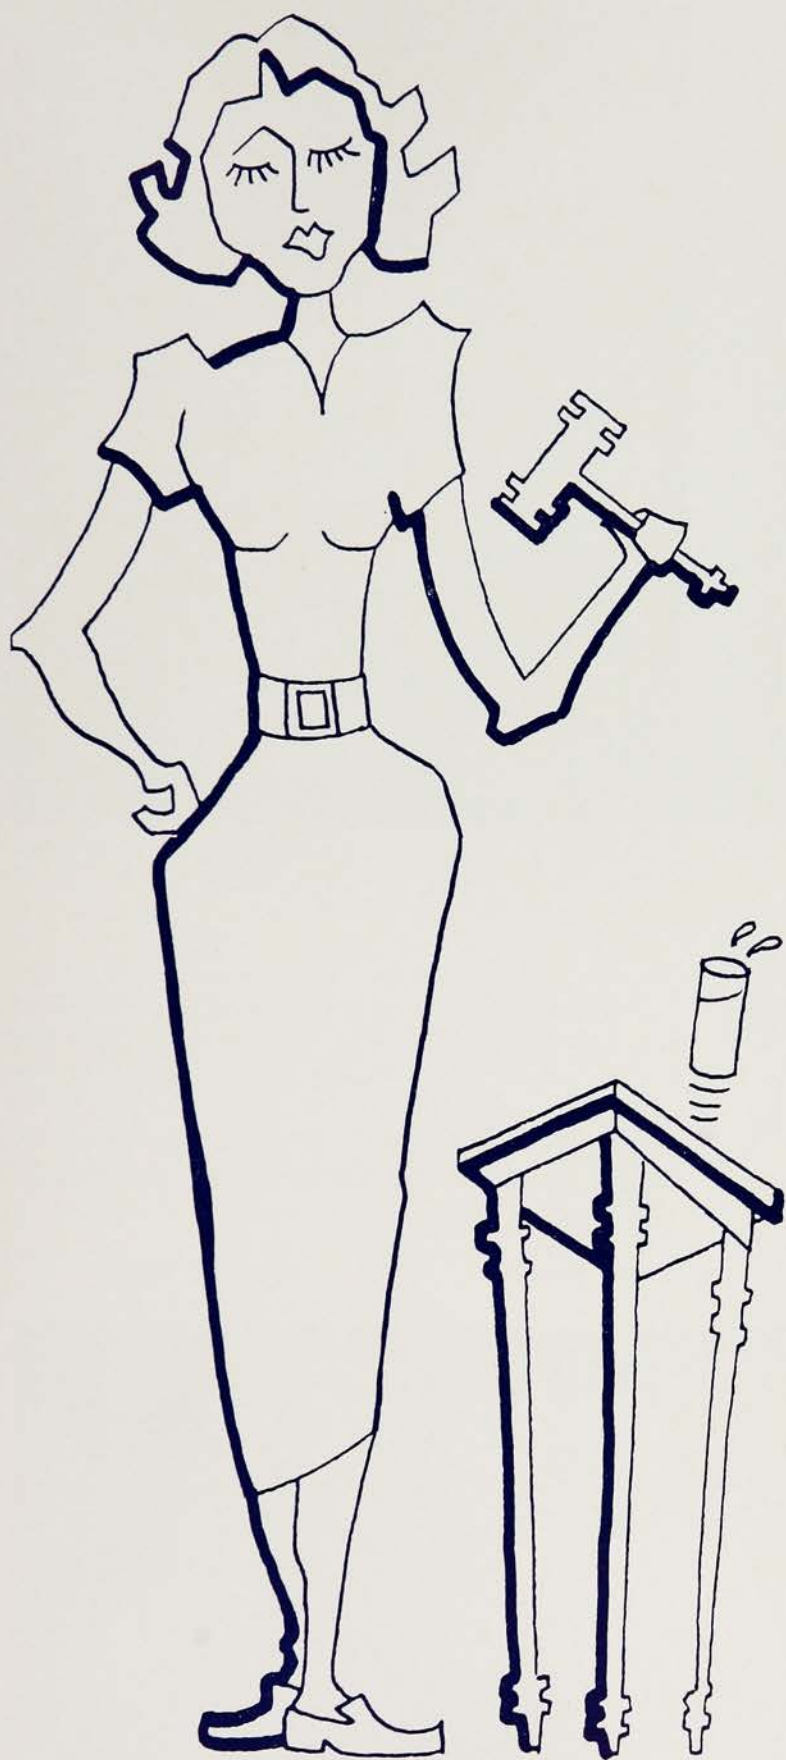

Business meetings, many social events, and lectures on the subject of psychology round a busy program. The main feature of each year's program is the initiation ceremony and banquet.

The social dances, square dances and folk dances held in the Student Union and in Building J are sponsored by the Council, and appointments of the Student Handbook editor and the chairman of the Student Enrollment Committee are made by this governing body.

The principal duty of the Student Council is to supervise and coordinate the various organizations on campus, so that all groups and all students will have equal opportunities for participation in University activities.

Orientation Week for new students is a product of the members' work, and is under the direction of the Council's Freshman Director.

The members of this important group include the President, Vice-President, Secretary, Comptroller, Advocate, Activities Director, Publicity Director, Program Director, Freshman Director, Student Union Chairman, Member at Large and one representative from each of the separate schools and colleges of the University.

1956 CHERRY TREE

Roger Spitzer, Paula Williams and Charlene McDonald, associate editors.

The 1956 CHERRY TREE is the end result of a lot of work, but also a lot of fun. Planning of the book started in the spring and summer of 1955 and the carrying through of the plan continued for most of the school year: "Let's have something different" was the magic phrase and so we have tried to change a few sections of the book. We even stuck a cherry tree in the CHERRY TREE.

The third floor of the Student Union Annex became the hideout for putting through these plans. Many an afternoon and evening was spent there pouring over the yearbook dummy with one eye on the deadline schedule and the other on a calendar.

There were many booths to sit on, ads to be sold, and University functions to be covered, but there was always the fun of meeting new people and getting things underway. Then somehow, there wasn't anything to do but wait for the books to be delivered.

So we feel it was all worth it and we hope you enjoy the 1956 CHERRY TREE.

THE HATCHET

Why the crowd in the Union on Tuesday morning? Why the eager looks of expectancy written on the faces of the crowd in the Union on Tuesday morning? Ask any loyal red-blooded student. Why, Tuesday is the morning The Hatchet appears.

In the weekly student newspaper, all the news of the past week, the present day and the coming month is printed. Sports fans may follow the Buff and Blue teams in all sports (including women's tournaments) on the last pages of The Hatchet. The middle pages include editorials on current campus subjects and various feature stories, which range from tales of foreign countries to interviews with student leaders. Who is being seen where, with whom, when and sometimes why: those are the subjects dealt with by Hester Heale in the ever-popular "Foggy Bottom" column, read by social-minded Colonials.

The Hatchet is published by the Board of Editors, the Sub-Editors and the Senior and Junior Staffs. The paper's offices are found on the main floor of the Student Union Annex. These offices are the scene of frantic activity on Saturdays and Sundays, the days when the paper is made ready for the press. But the result of such activity is a newspaper which almost yearly receives an All-American First Class Honor rating from the national Associated Collegiate Press.

The Colonial Boosters builds up, directs and organizes school spirit during the year. With this purpose in mind, the Boosters Board ably executes many pep-raising events.

The pre-game Pep Rallies are one result of the Boosters' hard work. At the beginning of the year, Booster Books are sold to students, and entitle the bearer and a guest to seats in the Booster section at football and basketball games. This Booster section forms the main cheering section for the Colonials, and shakers and noise makers are distributed to fans seated there. Booster Books are given free to Campus Combo holders.

Each year the organization presents the Boosters Cups to the fraternity and sorority which have done the best work in supporting school spirit. The Cups are awarded on the basis of the highest number of Boosters points accumulated during the school year. A group may earn points through participation in Boosters-sponsored events.

The Colonial Boosters sponsors the University mascots, "George and Martha Washington," and offers a prize to the student correctly guessing the identity of these two important individuals. The prize is given at the end of the football season.

One of the busiest organizations on campus, the Colonial Boosters deserves the gratitude of all University students.

DRAMATICS

The University Dramatic Activities, under the direction of Ed Ferero this year, presented a program of entertaining productions in Lister Auditorium.

The presentations of the group included student talent and some community players. Besides actual acting, the Dramatic Activities afforded opportunities for back-stage work in lighting, scenery, decoration, prop management, and costuming to University members. Useful training in acting and all phases of play production is made available by the group.

This year Campus Combo holders were entitled to three tickets to presentations of the drama group, under the co-operative efforts of both organizations. All plays were open to the general public as well as to University students.

The Dramatic Activities gave their first play of the year on December 9 and 10. It was a comedy, "The Curious Savage," and was directed by Orville French. Dr. Donald C. Kline, Executive Officer of the University's Art Department, helped student crews design, paint and arrange settings for the productions.

Members of the drama production organization received not only friendships and fun for their year's work, but also valuable experience in the actual producing of plays. Their efforts were applauded by those who saw the results of their work.

DANCE PRODUCTION GROUPS

The Dance production Groups provide a combination of fun and serious work in dance for all University students. The Groups are busy the year around providing good entertainment for the University, the area high schools and the community at large.

In the summer, the dancers present a program at the annual Summer Carnival, held in the University Yard. The Groups are again on hand at the Orientation Week dances at the beginning of the Fall term, and participate in all social, square and folk dances held throughout the school year. During the Christmas season, advanced dancers take part in the Pageant of Peace at the Elipse.

This scene from "Abstractions," a portion of the 1955 Dance Concert, features Loydell Jones and Tom Pence

The main event of the Dance Production Groups is the annual Modern Dance Concert, which is held in Lisner Auditorium in the spring. The members of the Groups also lend their talents to the Homecoming Pep-Rally-Variety Show and other University programs.

This year students benefitted from a master lesson by Miss Pauline Koner, noted modern dance artist.

The Dance Production Groups are divided into three sections of dancers: Group III for beginning participants, Group II for intermediate dance students and Group I for advanced dancers.

GLEE CLUB

The Glee Club, under the direction of Dr. Robert H. Harmon, adds to University life the musical element which is necessary to its success. Glee Club members are chosen from the Messiah Chorus, after their cantata performance during the Christmas season.

The singers often perform for such University events as the dances given by the Student Council at the end of the Orientation Week, the Homecoming Pep-Rally Variety-shows, and the Summer Carnival. At Christmas time the group sings carols at the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony, as well as participating in the Messiah.

Honors are presented to three-year members of the Glee Club, and many parties throughout the season break the routine of rehearsals.

The Glee Club is fortunate in having as its accompanist Mrs. Harmon, who, like her talented husband, is a skilled and experienced musician. "Doc" and Mrs. Harmon are responsible for the excellent programs given by the singers.

TROUBADOURS

J. Thorne, S. Davis, A. Gnotta, C. Lietwiler, H. Gleeson, C. Hesse, L. Jefferson, N. Schmidt, just a few of the Traveling Troubadours.

The Traveling Troubadours may be called the University's good will ambassadors to the rest of the world. This select group of singers, under Dr. Robert H. Harmon's direction, tour the globe twice a year as they provide entertainment for America's service men overseas.

The Troubadours' annual Christmas trip to the northern-most air bases in the world is an event greatly appreciated by Air Force personnel. During this trip, the singers visit Thule Air Force Base, near the North Pole, Newfoundland, and Greenland. Their summer trip usually takes them to the Azores and Bermuda.

This year the second annual Troubadour Concert, a program included in the Colonial Series, was presented to an audience which filled Lisner Auditorium. This large turn-out further exemplifies the University's pride in the organization.

Members of the Traveling Troubadours are selected from the University Glee Club on the basis of talent. "Doc" Harmon serves in a triple capacity for the group: director, counselor, physician. Mrs. Harmon is the able accompanist of the chorus.

U N I V E R S I T Y B A N D

The University Band Provides Swing Music at the Annual Fall Orientation Week Dance.

The University Band, which was started as an auxiliary organization under the direction of the Colonial Boosters, is now a separate group. The band's musicians serve in a double capacity as the executive officers of the organization.

Clad in black and gold uniforms, the members of the University Band provide spirit-raising marches and popular selections at football and basketball games, pep rallies and other University programs. Their most popular song is "Hail to the Buff," the school pep song. The Band's majorettes provide lively entertainment for spectators.

Each year the organization presents the Bandsman of the Year Award to the one member of the group who has contributed most to the advancement and success of the University Band. Band letters are awarded to musicians who have participated in the organization over a period of several years.

Membership in the University Band has greatly increased in the past two years, and the result of this new interest in the activity is a valuable addition to campus life. The Band has become a permanent part in the advantages which University life offers to the student.

Strong Hall, the University's dormitory for women, is governed by the Strong Hall Council. This Council is made up of two delegates from each floor of the dorm. The president of the group is elected by all of Strong Hall's girls each March.

The Council organizes all social events for Strong Hall, and takes care of the dorm's business. It also handles complaints and serves to enforce dorm regulations. The main service of the Council is to make all women students who live in Strong Hall feel welcome and comfortable in their new surroundings. Many of the Council's activities are designed to make the dormitory atmosphere more home-like.

Some of Strong Hall's social events are Orientation Week parties, exchanges between two floors of the building and teas honoring University professors. At the different holidays of the year, special parties are held in the dorm. These holiday parties take place on Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Also at Christmas, the girls decorate a Christmas tree for the first floor of Strong Hall.

BIG SIS

Bobby Ruth Moore models at the Big Sis Tips n' Tea for all new students and for all the Big Sisters

Big Sisters serves to orient new women students to college life and to acquaint them with campus activities. Before school begins each Big Sis contacts several prospective women students for the coming Fall and helps them become acquainted with the University. Each Big Sis further orients these incoming students by helping them during registration and by accompanying them to Big Sis Nosebag Lunches.

Officers are chosen by Mortar Board, and all women students who have participated in at least two activities during the past year at the University are eligible for membership.

The "Tips 'n' Tea with Topnotchers" program was one highlight of Orientation Week. At this program a fashion show was given to demonstrate to all new students the appropriate clothes to wear to college. Tassels, the Sophomore Women's Honorary, was tapped by Mortar Board at this function. New students also met the professors and members of the University Staff.

At the workshop for Big Sisters, William Lewis Turner, Assistant Dean of the Junior College, spoke about the academic policies of the University. He explained the ways to help Little Sisters set up their schedules. Big Sisters were acquainted with all of the University's facilities, health clubs, library regulations, and ways of being good Big Sisters to all new students.

The purpose of Old Men is to help acquaint new male students with the University by having each "old man" correspond with his "son" during the summer, meet with him, help him through registration, and go with him to various functions sponsored by the organization.

Twice a year the Old Men hold a workshop where plans are made as to how new male students can be better helped through registration. Early this Fall Old Men held a joint workshop with Big Sis.

Any man who has a quality point average of 2.0 and has participated in at least one activity is eligible to be an Old Man and is urged to join this most helpful organization which is made up of independents and members of all Greek organizations.

Meetings are held quarterly in the Student Union Annex and are governed by a council of ten members. This Organization has over 100 members. Each Old Man is responsible for approximately two to three new students and the group is organized on the same policies as Big Sisters.

Old Men was founded by General Faith, Dean of Men, and Jim Swisher. This is the first year of this organization and it has proved most successful.

Ernie Auerback, Dick Sincoff, Jim Swisher and Joe Hince discuss with pride the success of the new organization of Old Men.

ALPHA ZETA OMEGA

Ray Foer points out a fact pertinent to Alpha Zeta Omega business to Barry Deutchman, Sam Kouzel and Marv Schneider.

Alpha Zeta Omega is a national professional pharmaceutical fraternity made up of student and alumni. One of the aims of the fraternity is to keep abreast of the recent news and developments in the field of pharmacy. This is done through the publishing of a newspaper for pharmacists, speakers at the regular business meetings and by the formation of social contacts with professional pharmacists of the area.

A yearly scholarship to the University in Pharmacy is given by the Washington chapter to an outstanding high school graduate of the District of Columbia.

From this organization men can band together with a mutual interest, that of their future profession. As time passes Alpha Zeta Omega has shown more and more increased interest and has become a potent factor in the School of Pharmacy.

The Women's Athletic Association promotes participation in athletics, recreational leadership and sports-consciousness among University students. The Association provides an extensive program of athletic activities for women, including badminton, hockey, tennis, swimming and other sports.

The two main projects of the organization's calendar are the Fall and Spring Sports Awards Buffet Dinners. At these affairs, a speaker who is noted in some field of sports addresses the guests. After the main speech, members of the W.A.A. present entertainment, followed by the presentation of awards for outstanding participation in the season's sports.

The Women's Athletic Association also coordinates the Intersorority Athletic Board's tournaments with the individual sports of the University. The president of the Board, as well as the managers of all athletic teams on campus, is a member of the Women's Athletic Association.

Many students still refer to this group as the Women's Recreation Association, because the name of the organization was changed only this year to its present form.

Bev Borden, president of WAA, holds an executive council meeting

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

The Religious Council is the coordinating organization for all the religious clubs on campus. It successfully unites these groups, and is made up of representatives from all these clubs.

The primary activity of the Council is the sponsoring of the annual Religion-In-Life Week. During this week of the Thanksgiving season, religious services, panel discussions for the three major religions, the Skeptics Hour and social events serve to bring religion to the minds of University students. The Council also arranges for speakers who address fraternities and sororities on campus. The group sponsors the forum on religion for the Career Conference and an Orientation Week reception for new students.

WOMEN'S COORDINATING BOARD

The Women's Coordinating Board is composed of delegates from the womens organizations at the University. Its purpose is to contribute to the development of campus friendships and activities and to render service to the student body, the University and the community.

This year the Women's Coordinating Board opened its third annual "Clothes for Korea" Drive with a Rag Doll King and Queen contest. All organizations on campus were invited to sponsor a candidate for the honors. Each of the sponsoring organizations collected as much clothing as possible and filled gaily decorated boxes with all types of clothing. The candidates who had the most clothing in their boxes won the contest, and the clothing was sent to needy people in Korea.

This organization meets bi-monthly in Woodhull House.

The Sailing Association, or Sailing Club, as it is known to many students, is a co-educational social and recreational group. The main function of the Association is sailing, for fun or in competition; but the organization also holds social events and business meetings.

The aims of the Sailing Association are to promote better seamanship, to encourage greater appreciation for sailing as a recreation and a sport and to engage in intercollegiate competition. The club is open to both experienced students and to beginners in sailing. An instruction course in the art of sailing is offered to inexperienced members of the group.

The organization's sailing programs are held every weekend, although business meetings are attended only bi-monthly. The Association's main event for the year is the Frostbite Regatta in December. After this annual event, the group sponsors the Frostbite Ball, the yearly dance held by the Association.

Sailing Club members make a last minute check before a Saturday morning practice.

NEWMAN CLUB

Mary Dahlstedt, president, conducts a regularly scheduled meeting of the Newman Club.

The Newman Club unites Catholic students at the University in firmer faith, greater fellowship and extensive service to the student body as a whole.

During the annual Religion-In-Life Week, the Club actively participates in the planning and execution of the Week's religious services, discussion groups, social events and other programs. This week, which is set aside for the consideration of religion, usually occurs at the Thanksgiving season.

The Club's Christmas party successfully ends the year's activities for the group; but their active schedule is resumed at the beginning of the following year. The organization meets weekly in either business, social or cultural meetings.

The focal point of the Newman Club's social activity during the year is the annual University Celebrity Capers. At this dance, which is held in the late spring, the Club honors those ten students whom the members feel are the most outstanding senior students in the University. The ten Celebrities are chosen on the basis of their contribution to campus activities, and to the student body through their service to the school.

Through the fellowship of its members, the Newman Club provides for Catholic students a better understanding of their creed. Through its religious services, the Club offers a deeper faith to its members.

The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation provides religious, cultural and social activities for Jewish University students. The Foundation's yearly calendar is filled with many events in these three fields.

The highlight of the social side of Hillel's activity is the annual all-University "Ball o' Fire." At this popular mid-winter dance, the school's "Apollo" is crowned. Many other dances are held during the year, as well as parties, coffee hours and lunches in Hillel's own snack bar.

Some of the educational and cultural services offered by the Foundation are lectures, forums, films, courses in Hebrew, art, crafts and both drama and choral groups. Members benefit from discussion groups on current topics in all fields.

Hillel's interest also turns to the field of journalism. The Hillel Commentary, the organization's newspaper, is published by the members. Each year the Foundation sponsors a school-wide creative writing contest, and prizes are presented to the authors of the winning entries in the three divisions of the competition: essay, short story and poetry.

As a group, the Hillel Foundation holds services on the Sabbath Day and on High Holidays. In this way, as in the group's charity drives, the values of religion, charity and fellowship are realized by the members of Hillel.

Frances Bran, president and Rabbi Seidman, advisor, discuss the next meeting of Hillel.

The Home Economics Club is a social organization designed to give Department students an opportunity for practical application of their class problems. The organization is sponsored by Alpha Pi Epsilon, the home economics honorary fraternity.

The Club provides educational, social, and altruistic opportunities for its members. Meetings feature guest speakers, who discuss the many aspects of the field of home economics. In conjunction with Alpha Pi Epsilon, the Home Economics Club presents annually an interesting program for students.

The highlight of the years activities is the annual Christmas trip to the children's ward at Gallinger Hospital.

The International Relations Club serves to promote interest in international affairs and consciousness of world movements among the students of the University. The Club is a member of the Middle Atlantic Conference of International Relations Clubs. This organization is open to all students.

Speakers address the group during the year on current topics in international relations, and often question and answer periods follow the talks, in which students may become better acquainted with the world situation today. The I.R.C. also conducts projects designed to promote better understanding between America and the other nations of the world.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Alpha Kappa Psi, the professional fraternity for students majoring in commerce, economics and business administration, is the first and oldest organization of its kind.

The group encourages scientific research in accounting, commerce and finance, and serves to educate the public to appreciate those fields. Besides upholding the higher ideals of the fields with which it is concerned, Alpha Kappa Psi promotes classes in colleges and universities to aid students who wish to earn a degree in business administration.

The organization serves the University by helping to sponsor and organize the business administration forum of the annual Career Conference.

Seated: D. G. White, G. C. Edwards, R. G. St. Clair, president; T. G. Alexander, J. K. Draper. Standing: D. A. George, E. Horowitz, R. P. Farrow, H. W. Stenger, R. W. Loan, D. F. McCaulley, J. H. O'Mara.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

Alpha Chi Sigma is the University's professional chemistry fraternity. This organization offers to chemistry majors the opportunity of discussing the different aspects of the field with others who have the same interest in chemistry.

The fraternity is composed of men who have chosen to use some section of chemistry as their life's work. Alpha Chi Sigma is open to any male student at the University who has completed one and one half years of chemistry courses. Members must have maintained a 2.5 quality point index or better in their University work.

The purpose of the International Students Society is to foster a better understanding among the University's foreign students. It serves to promote fellowship between American and foreign student groups.

During the year this group gives monthly social affairs, including the annual Valentine Dance. This is the primary event of the club's social calendar. Among the many other social activities are parties, teas, dances and motion pictures.

The International Students Society is not concerned with the political differences of the countries represented in its membership, as the group is concerned only with social events.

Alpha Theta Nu, an organization for all those students who hold or have held University scholarships, is also a service organization. They may be called upon at any time to aid the University for various jobs around the University. A meeting ground for all these students are these activities which may include acting as guides and hosts to high school students, helping at booths during registration and ushering at Lisner events. They are truly a highly selective group at The George Washington University.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club is designed to develop and encourage the students interest in and to further his knowledge of chemistry and its related fields. The Club is sponsored by the Universitys Chemistry Department.

At the bi-monthly meetings of the Club, many events of interest to all students are held. These services include lectures, field trips and demonstrations, and are open to the entire University. The Chemistry Club also helps to sponsor the chemistry forum of the Career Conference.

This organization is open to any student who has taken or is taking one course in chemistry. Its members benefit from association with others who are interested in the different aspects of chemistry.

M. Paebo, Vice-President; R. Hauk, Treasurer; N. Rucker; C. Bonbrest, Secretary; L. Anstine, President.

IOTA SIGMA PI

Iota Sigma Pi is the national chemistry honorary for women. Its aim is to promote interest in the field of chemistry, to add advance scholarship in that field, and to bring together women who have a common interest in chemistry and in science in general.

Undergraduate membership requires a B average for 20 hours of chemistry and 3.0 quality point index.

Initiation usually takes place in the fall, while new members are pledged in the spring.

Meetings are held once a month with guest speakers who talk on current subjects in the field of chemistry.

An annual project of Iota Sigma Pi is the Lab Supper, at which the entire meal is served from laboratory equipment.

Alpha Pi Epsilon is the home economics honorary fraternity on campus. Now in its 24th year at the University, the honorary has both a college chapter and an alumnae chapter.

This fraternity elects its members from the home economics majors at the University. In order to become a member, a student must have a 2.5 over-all quality point index and a 3.0 average in home economics courses. Alpha Pi Epsilon works with the Home Economics Club, of which it is the sponsoring group.

The meetings of the organization feature informative speeches on the various aspects of the field. This year Alpha Pi Epsilon members enjoyed a Christmas party at the home of Miss Frances Kirkpatrick, Executive Officer of the Home Economics Department.

Coordination of all major campus activities was the aim and the goal of the Campus Combo Executive Committee this year. The co-chairmen of the Committee are also the Student Council-appointed co-chairmen of the Campus Combo Committee. Executive Committee membership includes the Comptroller and the President of the Student Council.

In the school year 1955-56, the CHERRY TREE, Homecoming, the Winter Weekend, the Fashion Show, the Colonial Cruise, Boosters membership, Drama productions and the Modern Dance Concert were included in the Combo. It is the aim of the Committee to contribute to all member events for their greater success.

The Air Force Advanced Management Program consists of 41 Air Force Officers in the grades of Major and Lt. Colonel. The program pursued by these officers is designed to provide them with the management tools required in command or staff positions throughout the Air Force. This program contains course work in Business Administration, Statistics, Accounting, Public Administration and Economics, and leads to the degree of Master of Business Administration.

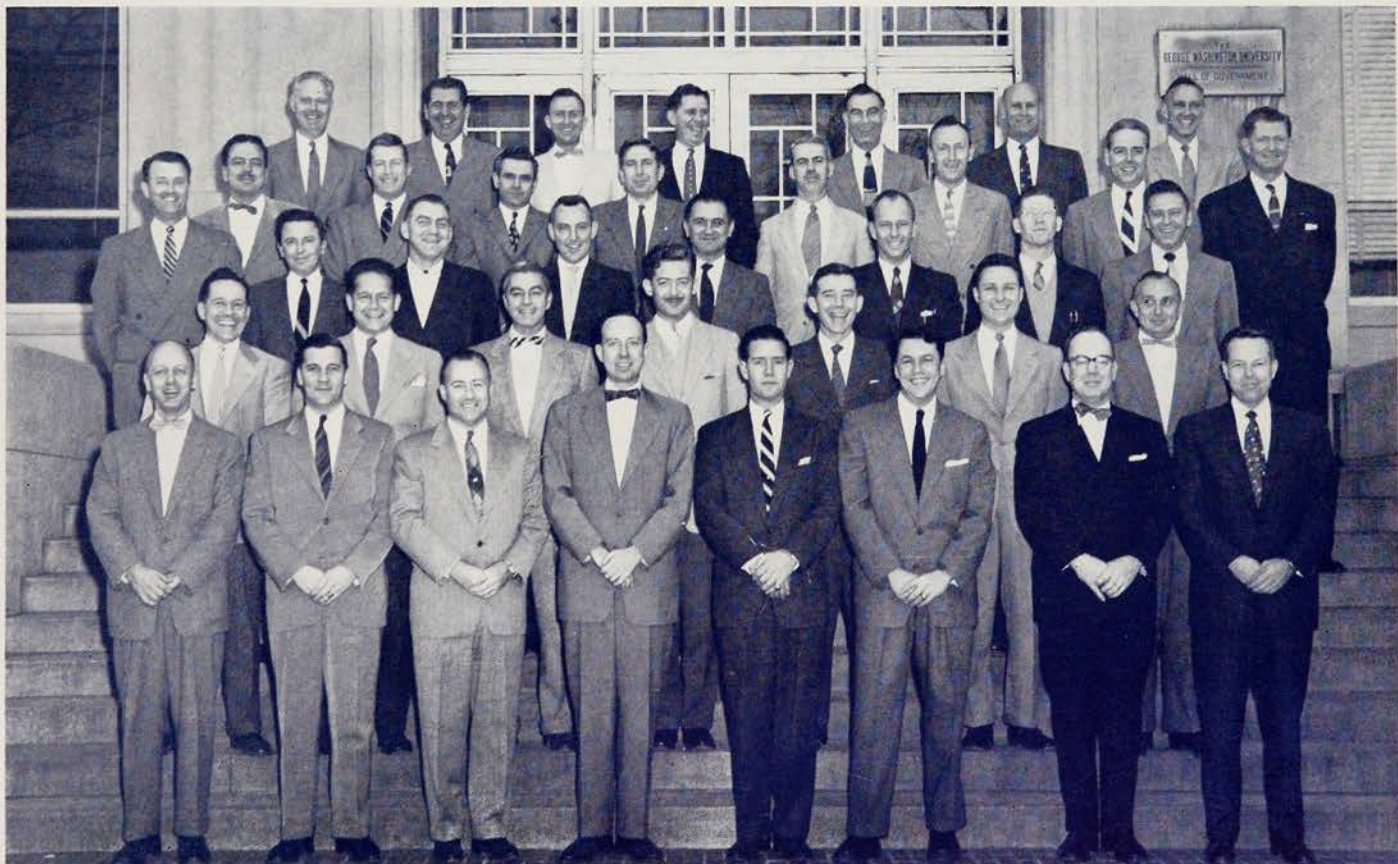

This group is the second to be enrolled at The George Washington University, the first group having completed the course in August, 1955. The current curriculum will end in August of 1956, by which time each student will have received approximately 50 semester hours of academic credit. Upon such completion, the graduates will be reassigned to stations in every section of the globe.

The Engineers' Council, formed to serve as a liaison body between the students and faculty of the School of Engineering and to act as a coordinating board for the societies and fraternities, is the representative body of the students of the School of Engineering. The sixteen members of the 1955-56 council represent the Engineering School: the A.S.M.E., A.S.C.E., A.I.E.E., I.R.E.; Theta Tau and Sigma Tau; Mecheleciv; two members elected from the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes; and the appointed position of house manager of the Davis-Hodgkins House.

Each year the Council sponsors the Engineers' Mixer and the Engineers' Banquet and Ball. The Mixer, given in the fall, provides an opportunity for the engineering students to meet their faculty on an informal basis. The Banquet and Ball, given each spring, is the scene for awards given each year in the Engineering School.

Each year at Christmas the Council presents the University with a tree, and collects money for underprivileged children.

SIGMA TAU

Prof. Ben C. Cruickshanks, advisor to Xi chapter, receives the Sigma Tau "Merit Award" from president Thomas J. Creswell.

Sigma Tau, founded at the University of Nebraska in 1904, is an academic achievement society recognizing scholastic ability among engineering students. Xi chapter at The George Washington University maintains the academic honor and professional service of Sigma Tau.

Xi chapter, founded at the University in 1921, is composed of members selected from those students in the upper third of the junior and senior classes who demonstrate sociability, practicability and professional achievement.

Aside from its own functions, Sigma Tau engages in many activities designed to help the student body, the school, and the University. Of primary interest is Sigma Tau's counseling service, designed to assist any student who is experiencing difficulty in any of his engineering courses. Recognizing the importance of making the scholastic hurdle of the freshman year, Sigma Tau annually cites the Sophomore engineering student who, during his freshman year, has attained the highest grade average in his engineering courses.

Just as the study of electrical engineering is integrated in college, so are the two student branches of the engineering societies in this field. Although the two societies are integrated in name in the Joint Branch, a student may join either one or both of them.

The A.I.E.E. was founded in 1884, and has as its objective the advancement of the theory and practice of Electrical Engineering, and the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members. The I.R.E. was founded when the field of radio was still in its infancy. It is devoted to the advancement of the theory and practice of communications, electronics and allied fields.

Throughout the year, the Joint Branch invites speakers from government and industry to talk on various subjects in the field of electrical engineering. The program is often varied by movies or inspection trips to nearby industrial plants.

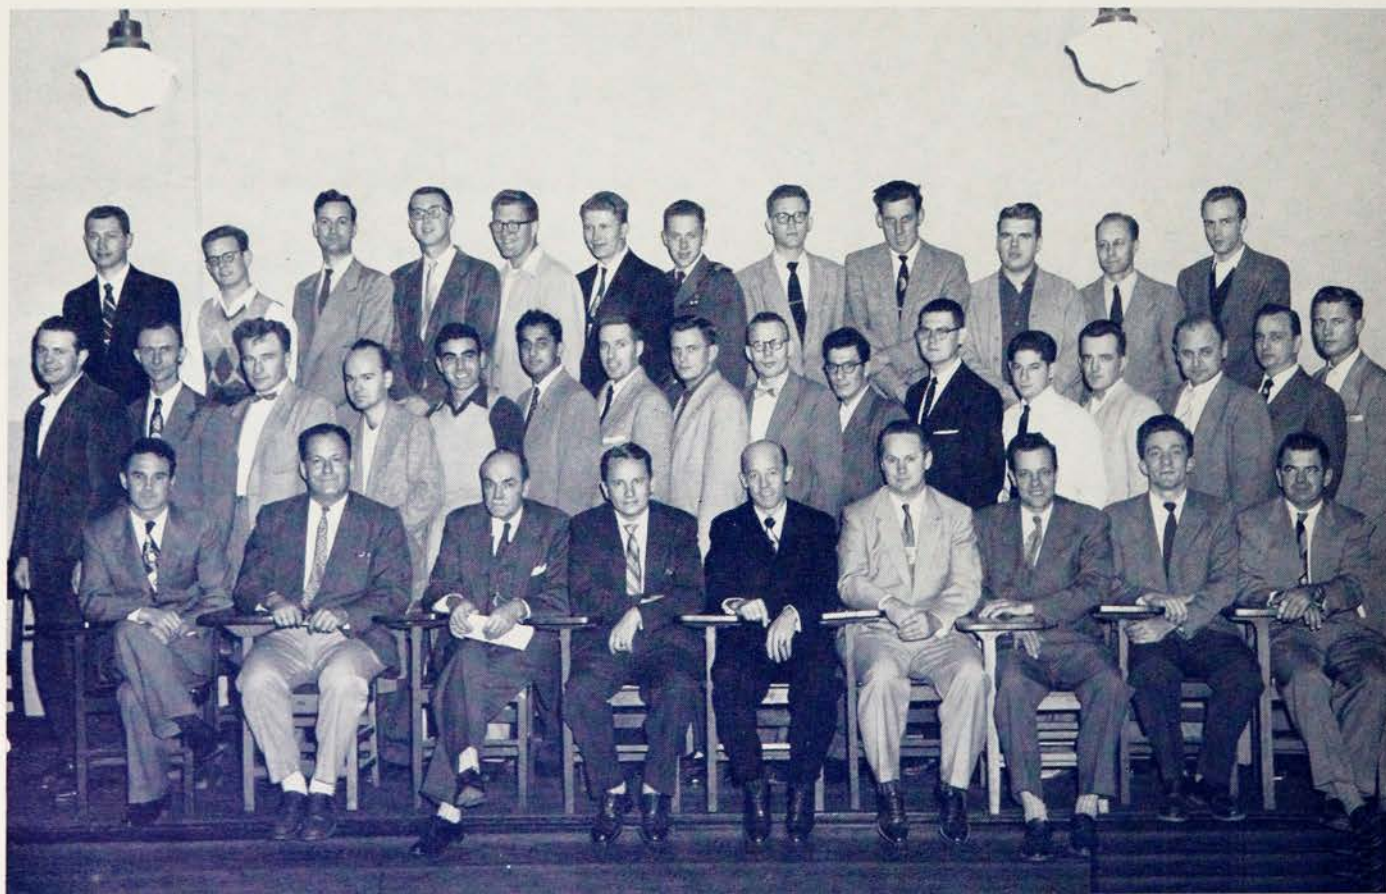

In order to further interest in the field, both the A.I.E.E. and the I.R.E. hold contests for all interested students who wish to test their technical knowledge of electrical engineering by entering a quiz contest given by the I.R.E., or the paper contest sponsored by the A.I.E.E.

Mike Brady points out a reading to other members of AIEE and IRE.

MECHELECIV

Plans in the making for the next issue of Mecheleciv.

Mecheleciv Magazine is the engineering student's journal of The George Washington University. Throughout the year, its pages feature student technical articles and prize papers, articles dealing with the engineering profession, and news of the engineering school and its alumni.

Mecheleciv has a circulation of 2400, and is published six times a school year under the sponsorship of the Engineers' Council. The staff of Mecheleciv is composed entirely of undergraduate students, who attend to the entire publication of the magazine except for printing.

Mecheleciv, the only nationally affiliated student publication in the University, is a member magazine of the Engineering College Magazines Associated.

The magazine is published to further interest in engineering and University activities both among students and alumni, and to provide an opportunity for students to gain experience in the fields of publication and technical writing.

The G.W.U. Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is sponsored by the Washington section of the A.S.M.E. and is open to students interested in the field of mechanical engineering. The A.S.M.E. was founded nationally in 1880, and since that time has grown to number over fifty thousand members, one third of which are student members of the one hundred thirty-five student branches.

The program of the A.S.M.E. meetings is as diversified as the field of mechanical engineering itself. Through a progressive professional program, the student gains an introduction to the profession of engineering as well as having the opportunity to meet many top men in his field, who are invited to speak on a variety of subjects throughout the year. The monthly magazine and the up to date movies shown at meetings keep the student informed of the latest developments in mechanical engineering.

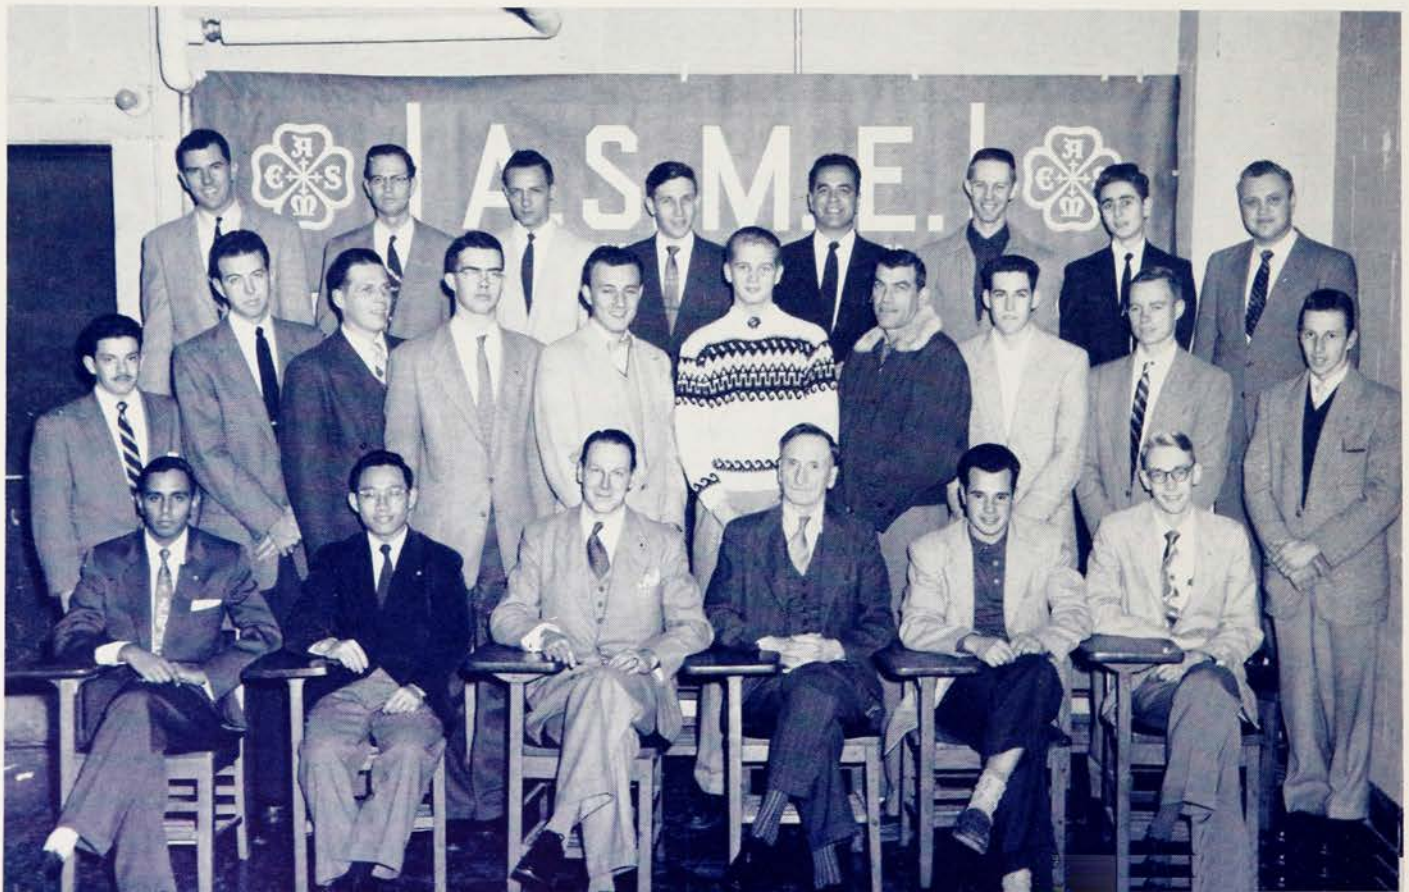

To encourage original research and study on the part of students, the branch sponsors a yearly prize paper contest which is open to all undergraduate engineering students.

Members of ASME plan for the future.

THETA TAU

Theta Tau, the oldest engineering fraternity in the country, is represented on the G. W. campus by the Gamma Beta Chapter. Theta Tau saw its birth at the University of Minnesota in 1904, and has since grown to its present size of twenty-three chapters in engineering schools and colleges throughout the country.

The purposes of Theta Tau, incorporated by its founders, are to help develop a high standard of professional interest among student engineers and to unite students in the various fields of engineering with strong bonds of fraternal friendship. Therefore, its membership requirements are such that Theta Tau does not compete with either social fraternities or engineering societies.

In 1935, the Gamma Beta Chapter of Theta Tau was founded at The George Washington University. Each year the chapter holds two Invitation Balls and Banquets for its new members. In addition to these two main events, other parties and picnics are held throughout the year.

Membership into Theta Tau is obtained by invitation only. Prospective members are selected from engineering students in good standing and meeting the unanimous approval of the brothers.

A. S. C. E.

The American Society of Civil Engineers, the oldest engineering professional society in America, was founded in 1852 to differentiate Civil or Civilian Engineers from Military Engineers. The G. W. Student Chapter, organized in 1923, promotes a program designed to meet the interests of civil engineering students.

So great and diversified is the field of civil engineering, that the A.S.C.E. attempts to present to the student a glimpse of each segment, along with the opportunity to discuss these fields first-hand with practicing engineers. Included in the program for the year were a host of interesting subjects, presented through speakers and field trips. Highlighting the agenda for the year were revision of the Chapter Constitution and initiation of the annual joint meeting on professional registration.

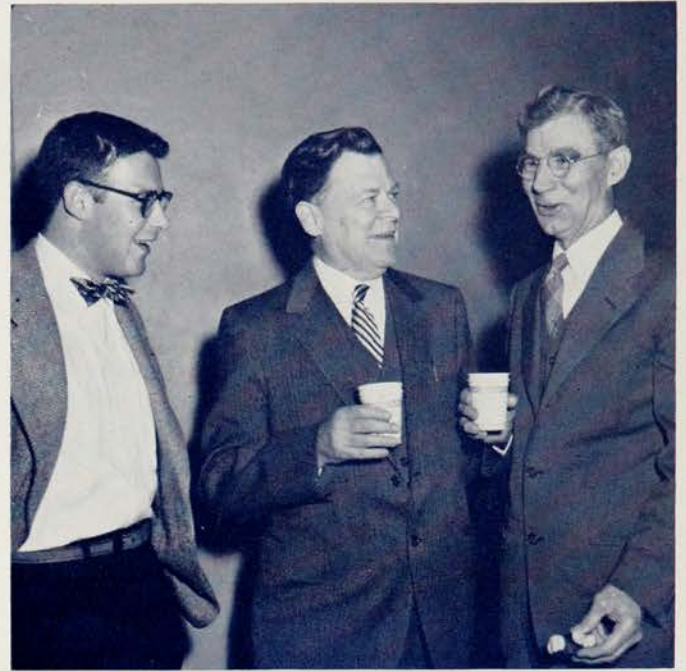

To recognize professional achievement, the chapter gives an annual award to the student who has contributed the most to the A.S.C.E. throughout the year.

The Preamble of the Constitution of the Student Bar Association reads: "Its purposes are to further scholastic attainment, to develop a spirit of brotherhood among members and to enhance the reputation of the Law School of The George Washington University."

This organization includes in its membership every student enrolled in the Law School.

Officers are elected in the spring and serve the following academic year. They are assisted by delegates representing both day and night sections of the Law School. There are also representatives on the board from Amicus Curiae, the Law School paper; the Van Vleck Case Club, the Legal Aid Society, the American Law Student Association, and the Student Council of the University.

A full social and professional program is presented annually by the Student Bar Association.

Bill Driscoll, president, and Dean C. D. Benson talk over a Student Bar Association meeting with George Renehan, the featured speaker at the meeting.

The Law Review is published six times each year and is devoted to discussion and critical analysis of problems and cases in the field of public law. Approximately sixty students, chosen on the basis of scholarship, comprise the staff of the Law Review for the year 1955-1956.

Phi Delta Phi Legal Fraternity, founded at the University of Michigan Law School in 1869, is the oldest professional fraternity in America. The Fraternity from the date of its founding has been continually pledged to the advancement of high scholarship and culture, opposition to corrupt practices, and rigid adherence to a code of professional ethics.

Since its organization at The George Washington University Law School in 1884, the John Marshall Inn of Phi Delta Phi has continued to make a substantial contribution to the professional development of its student members. The Inn holds eight meetings a year, where prominent attorneys in government and private practice speak on subjects of current interest. Included in the annual program of the Inn are three banquets, Fall and Spring Formals, and a Summer picnic.

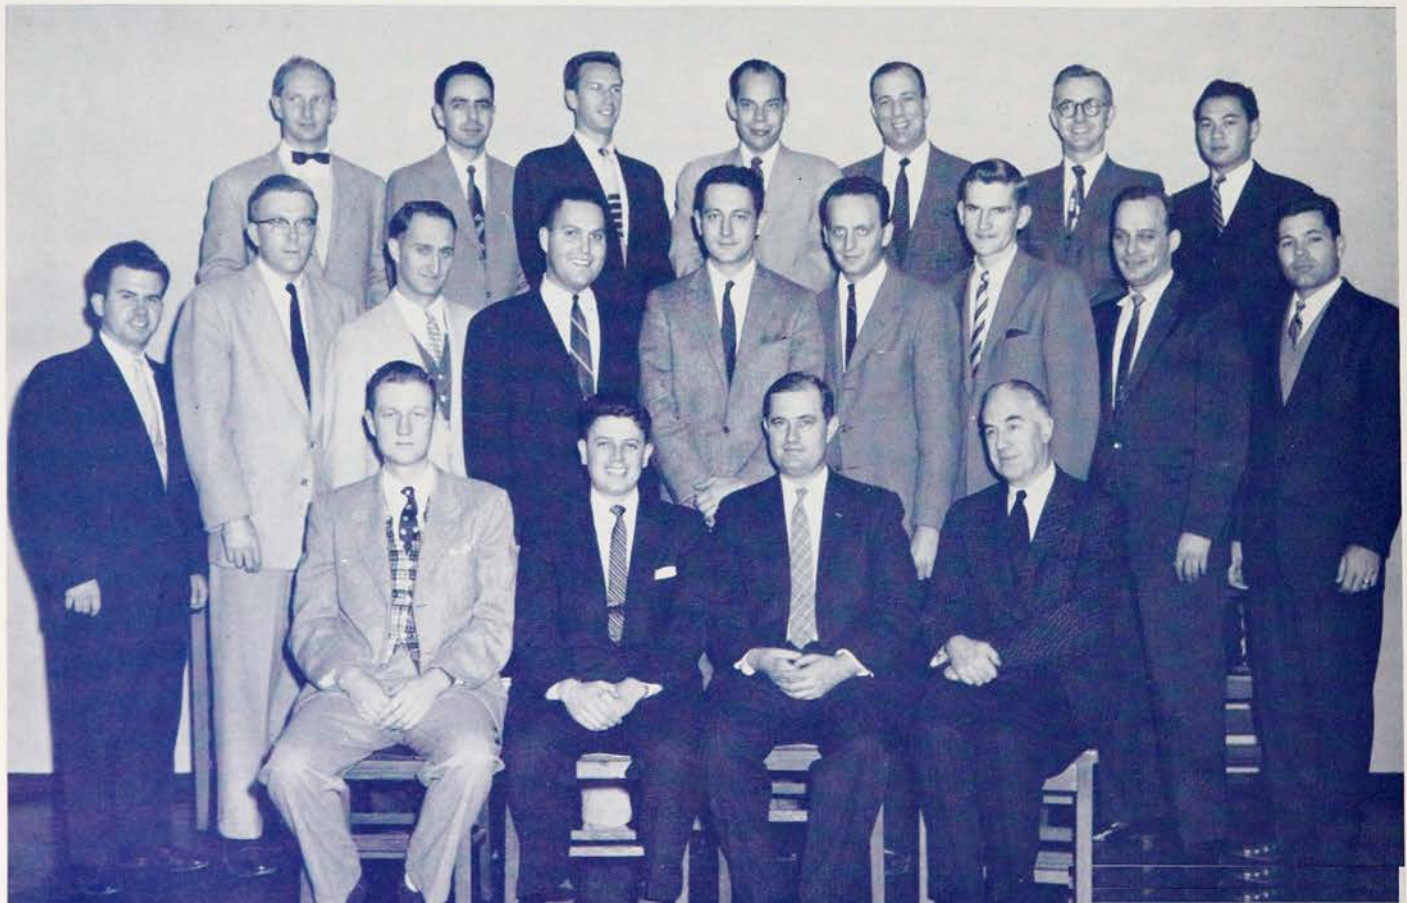

Barrister Inns, located in most of the major cities of the United States, provide a continuing program of fraternal association for graduates of the seventy-one law school chapters of Phi Delta Phi.

PHI ALPHA DELTA

Tony Zimmer, Justice, conducts a meeting of Phi Alpha Delta.

John Jay Chapter of Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity has enjoyed one of its most successful years in recent memory. Under very capable leadership, the chapter followed a program which won for it the honor of selection as the fraternity's second best active chapter in the nation. The current leadership is confident that its program will lead to top honors for the chapter.

The Effective Speaking Program, exemplified by PAD Toastmasters, reached a pinnacle in aiding Law School students to improve what is perhaps their most effective weapon—their public speaking abilities.

Two successful dinner-dances and a summer picnic gave the members and their families a chance to socialize, outside the usual fraternity meetings.

The chapter's professional speaker program featured such guest speakers as Associate Justice Tom Clark of the Supreme Court, Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws of the Court of Appeals, Prof. Herman Orentlicher of the GW Law School faculty and prominent members of the local bar.

The chapter was also one of the motivating forces in the formation of the Inter-Law Fraternity Council in the Law School.

Although a large number of members was lost through graduation and entry into active practice of law, successful rush programs in each semester went a long way towards maintaining the membership at a high level.

Congenial students of the Law are united in Woodrow Wilson Senate of Delta Theta Phi, one of the country's outstanding law fraternities. The Senate enthusiastically participates in all the activities sponsored by the Student Bar Association and proudly boasts several members occupying high offices in various extra-curricular legal organizations. The fraternity awards each year to qualifying graduating members the prized Scholarship Key and competes with senates at other law schools for the National Scholarship Cup which three times has been awarded to Wilson Senate. Prominent legal figures are featured at numerous professional meetings and through the year the members enjoy dances, banquets and informal social functions, the most outstanding of which is the Lohnes Outing. Wilson Senate is the only local law fraternity which participates in intramural sports.

"Amicus Curiae," published by the Student Bar Association, is a professional newspaper for The George Washington University Law School, and first appeared here in the Spring of 1952. The staff of the publication is composed exclusively of law students. The purposes of the newspaper are to supplement the legal education of the law students and to furnish information concerning the activities of the Law School organizations. "Amicus Curiae" is published in cooperation with the faculty of the Law School, with individual faculty members contributing one or more articles to each issue, which are of timely and particular interest to the law student. The George Washington Law Association sponsors one issue of the publication each academic year, which is sent to all alumni of the Law School. "Amicus Curiae" is published four times each semester and is made available to all law students.

AIR FORCE ROTC

The initials "AFROTC" stand for the Air Force Reserve Officer's Training Corps. Historically, the ROTC became a part of the educational scene as the democratic way to prepare citizens in time of peace for military leadership in time of war. It was the logical outgrowth of the traditional concept of the minuteman, facing the frontier, always ready to defend the struggling young republic.

Today, through the study of Air Science,

The Color Guard of the AFROTC.

ROTC has accepted the challenge of new frontiers, where even the realms of sound and time are left behind. They have seen the airplane bring the people of many lands together into a more closely knit community.

The airplane has also become a major weapon in our defense structure. With this, we must have capable leadership for tomorrow and for the years ahead—the leadership of intelligent, informed, and responsible citizens.

Hence it is the responsibility of Colonel Carl Swyter, Director, Division of Air Science, and his staff to carry out this leadership development program in conjunction with the University.

Cadets attend classes as usual, but there has been one major change. For the first time, the ROTC Program is being offered to Co-Eds, who receive the same training as other cadets both in the classroom and on the drill field.

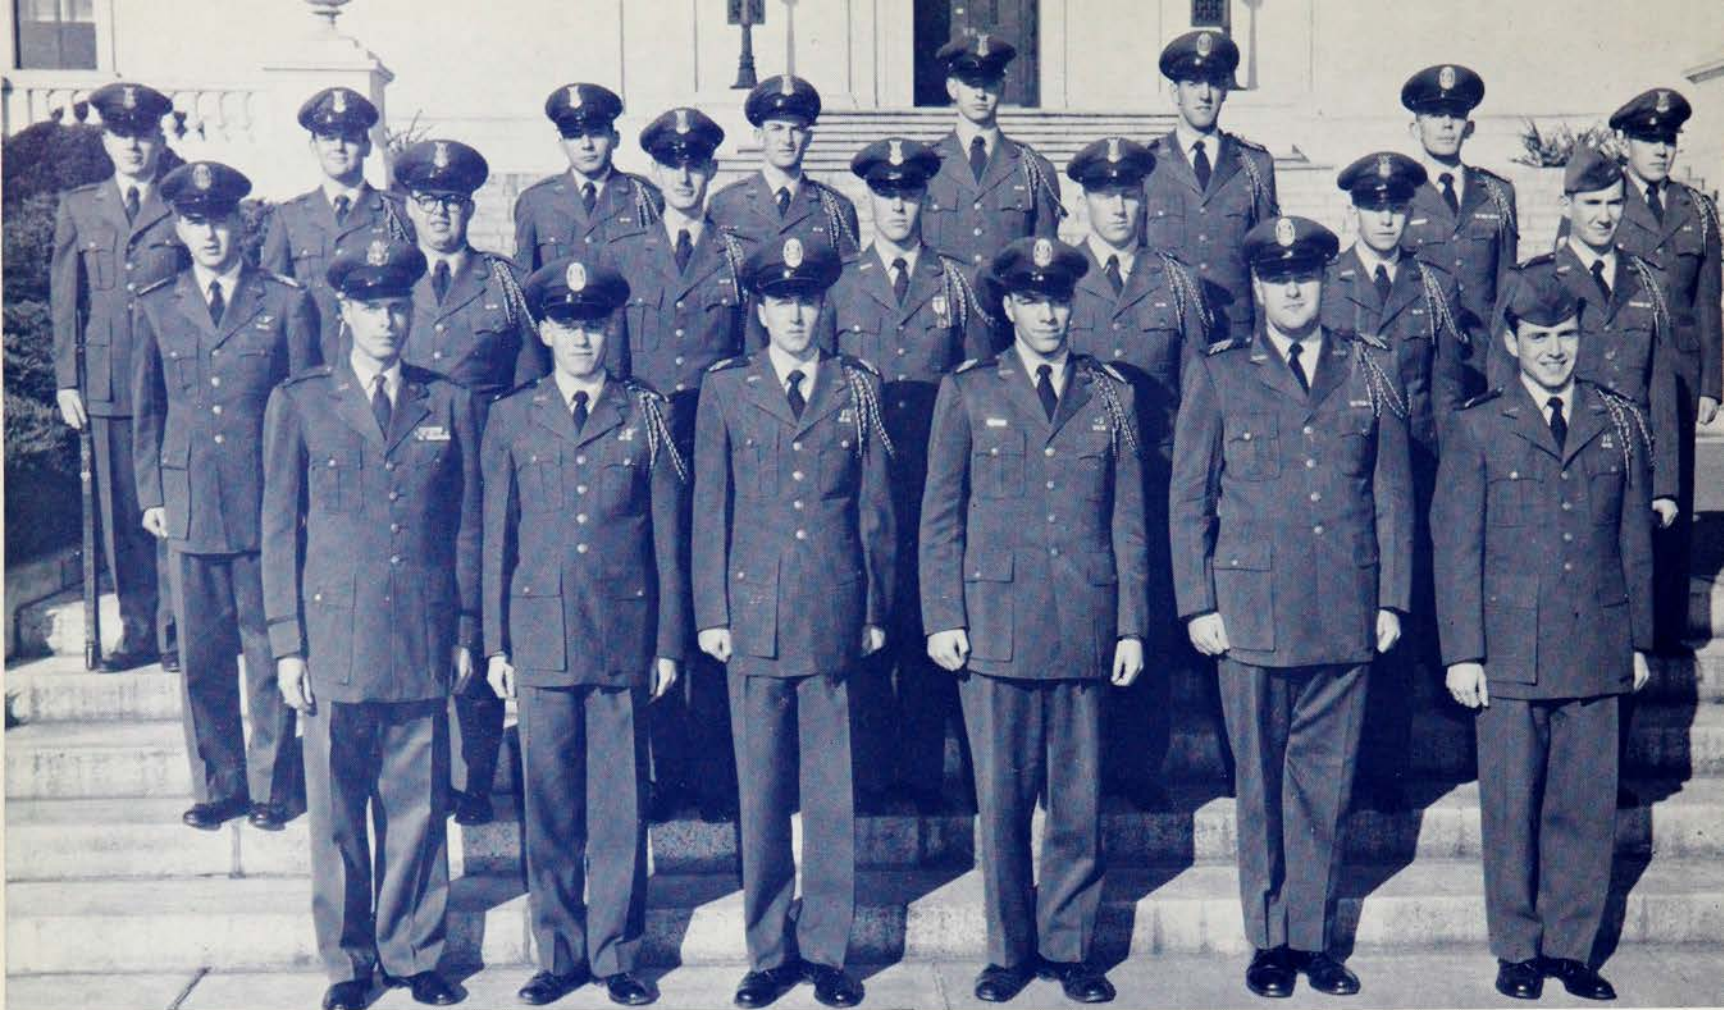

In addition to its academic functions, the Air Force ROTC assists the University in many of its extra-curricular activities. For example, it provided uniformed escorts for the Homecoming Queen candidates at the Homecoming Pep Rally.

To aid the cadets in the development of leadership, there are two national organizations connected with the Corps of Cadets. One is the Carl Spaatz Squadron of the Arnold Air Society, which is an honorary Air Force society for Advanced course cadets. The Society was activated at the University in the Fall of 1952. Serving as a hub for cadet activities, the Arnold Air Society sponsors many social functions, one of which is the annual Cadet Ball.

Also, there is the Pershing Rifles, which was organized in March, 1952. The main function of the Pershing Rifles is to give recognition to basic cadets who show exceptional leadership ability. It is the Pershing Rifles crack drill team which has brought much favorable comment to the Corps of Cadets. The team has performed in many affairs including the Cherry Blossom Parade, the Apple Blossom Parade, the Bethesda Christmas parade and at the detachment's formal reviews. Several trophies awarded to this unit can be attributed to the efforts of the Pershing Rifles.

In addition to the above, there is the Rifle Team which participates in many inter-school meets during the school year. Another organization is the Flying Sponsors, an honorary girls unit, that gives active and wholehearted assistance to all military and social functions of the Corps of Cadets. Some of the Sponsors' more noticeable achievements have been curtains for the cadets' lounge, silk scarves for the drill team, and monthly "coke" parties, with members of the Cadet Group.

REVIEW OF SEASON

Too bad that bowl contestants aren't chosen on the basis of the first six games. If so, Colonial fans might have seen a bowl-bound eleven this year. Off to their best start in many seasons, the Colonial gridders chalked up victories in five of their initial six clashes, but lost the last three encounters, two of these to top teams in the country.

The accent was on defense this season—that plus the elimination of that last quarter foldup which cost them so dearly last year. With a staunch line and secondary, the Buff held opposing elevens to one TD or less in six of their nine contests; tough West Virginia could score only two second half touchdowns while highly rated Maryland scored only three. The University of Florida did, however, manage four touchdowns against the stubborn Colonial defense, but three came in the second half against a trip-weary, demoralized team.

The rest of the Buff's gridiron schedule for 1955 was rounded out by the University of Pennsylvania, which yearly plays the toughest football schedule in the East; VPI, one of Virginia's finest football teams; VMI and William and Mary, two top Southern Conference Schools; Virginia, Atlantic Coast Conference squad which GW had beaten only once in fourteen games; and Richmond, one of the Southern Conference's better teams.

A special note should be written about Coach "Bo" Sherman, who in his fourth year turned out a winning ball team. Named "Gee, it's nice to have friends!" Two GW blockers act the part well in leading interference for Mike Sommer, GW back.

Southern Conference Coach of the Year, Coach Sherman was ably assisted by line coach, Ray Hanken, who did a brilliant job in training the Colonials' great line this season. A great deal of the Buff's success can be traced to Hanken's brilliance. His defensive maneuvers baffled GW opponents most of the time and spearheaded several Colonial victories.

Two Buff performers were chosen All-Southern Conference for their outstanding performances this season—sophomore sensation Mike Sommer and junior Paul Thompson. Sommer, the speedy left-halfback, was the Colonials' top ground-gainer, top scorer, and the nation's number one punt returner. Right-end Thompson was the favorite target of Colonial passers, and his great defensive work drew raves from opposing coaches.

The Colonials opened up their season with an impressive 25-6 win over VMI before 8,000 fans. Undampened by a steady downpour, the Colonials rolled up 235 yards rushing while passing only twice during the game. GW defenders intercepted three Keydet passes, two more than VMI could complete all day, and held them to a total of 109 yards gained. The Colonials opened the scoring when they took the opening kickoff, and, with Looney mixing his plays well, marched down to the VMI two. From here Weaver punched it over. Midway in the third period, Mike Sommer fielded a Keydet punt on his own sixteen and sprinted 84 yards up the sidelines to put the Colonials ahead 13-0. Late in the third period

Football, football, who's got the football? Your guess is as good as ours!

Pennsylvania Up-Ended in GW's 25-6 Victory

"Come to poppa, little football," says Mike Sommer as he latches on to one of Bob Sturm's long aerials.

Bo Austin intercepted a Keydet pass on the GW 25 and traveled 67 yards to the VMI 8 before being stopped. Looney then went over for the score. A blocked punt led to the lone Keydet score midway in the fourth period, and the Colonials countered late in the period as Sommer carried five straight times. Sturm then scored from the one and the game ended with GW ahead 25-6.

The Colonials made it two straight when they blanked Virginia 13-0 before 13,000 at Virginia's Scott Stadium for their second win in the fifteen game series. Paul Thompson forced a poor Cavalier pass midway through the second period and Bo Austin picked it off on the Virginia 43 and traveled the distance unmolested. Early in the fourth period guard Ray Murray stole the ball and raced down to the Cavalier 10 before he was stopped. A pass interference penalty put the ball on the one and Sturm rammed it over. The Colonials once again picked off three opposing aerials.

The Buff stepped a little out of class when they traveled South and took on the University of Florida's Hurricanes. Minus the services of Dick Gaspari and Bill Weaver and able to use Thompson only sparingly, the Colonials played an inspired first half only to see the well-gearred Florida offense shift into high in the last half.

Before 17,204 suntanned fans in the Gator Bowl, GW's still defense yielded nothing to the Gators in the first period. Then midway through the second period a recovered fumble led to the lone Florida first-half score. Florida took the second half kickoff and marched 62 yards to paydirt to increase their lead to 14-0. After an exchange of punts the Gators took over on the 18 yard line. Four plays later speedy halfback Jim Rountree was off 66 yards for the third Florida score. The Colonials made their best move early in the fourth period before an interception ended the threat. Sturm's passing was the high note for the Colonials as he hit on 7 out of 13.

Anxious to get back to their winning ways the Colonials traveled to historic Franklin Field where before 13,178 the Buff licked Penn 25-6 in the mud.

After an exchange of punts following the opening kickoff, the Colonials took possession of the pigskin on the Quaker 32. Three plays later Weaver scored from the four. Early in the second period Sturm hit Dancu with an 18-yard pitch for the Colonials lone aerial score of the year. Guard Ray Murray's interception of a Frank Rispel pass led to the Colonails' third score early in the fourth period and a ten yard jaunt by Sommer capped a 24 yard drive. After Penn scored on the ensuing kickoff the Buff retaliated with a 65 yard march of their own. Looney's 45 yard spurt down the right sideline culminated the drive.

Out of sight, out of mind? No, just out of bounds! Mike Sommer, almost away for six points, gets bumped out of bounds.

At William and Mary's Cary Field 4,500 spectators watched the Indians and the Colonials battle to a 0-0 stalemate before the Buff rolled up sixteen last period points. This was the contest where the Colonial depth made the difference. Entering the game in the third period, an eager band of reserves piled up a 10-point lead before turning the game back to the regulars to complete the job.

With Saffer and Looney pacing the surge, the Colonials moved from their own 43 with Looney finally going over on the keeper play from the one. On the next series of plays Looney pilfered an Al Grieco pass on the W&M 42 and the Colonials were in business again. Saffer and Looney took the Buff to the twelve before the Indians stiffened. Claypool then coolly stepped back and booted a 17-yard field goal. The regulars came back on the scene, and with Sommer grinding out three straight first downs behind great blocking, the Colonials moved to the Indians 19. Mike then spurted the remaining distance to sew up the ball game.

Playing what many experts called their best game of the season, the underdog Colonials came from behind to upend VPI 13-7 before 10,000 spectators at Miles Stadium. In containing the spectacular Dickie Beard, GW handed VPI their first conference loss since 1953.

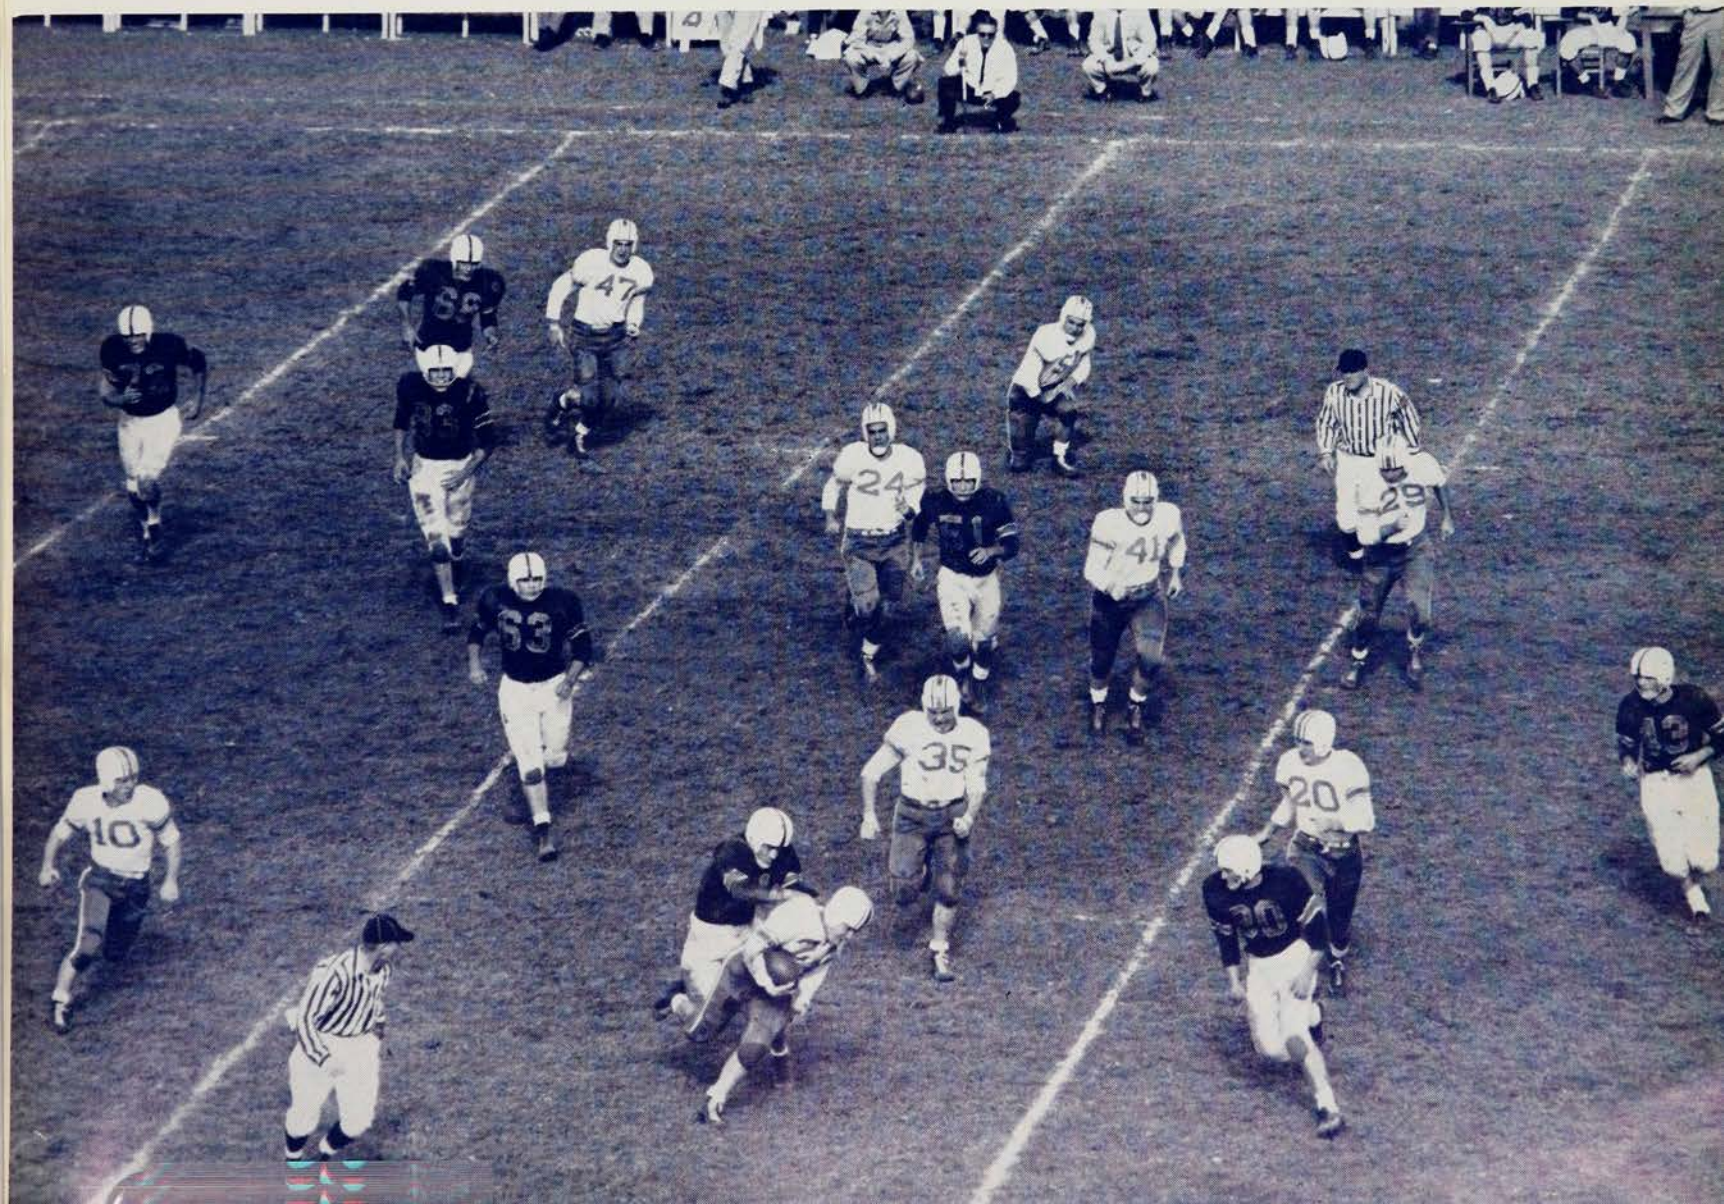

Beard did shake loose on one play, a 25 yard scamper in the second period for the lone Gobbler score. From 22 yards out in the third period Mike Sommer scored one of his five TDs this season. The score was the culmination of a drive which started eleven plays earlier with the second half kickoff.

Then with four and a half minutes left, the second stringers once

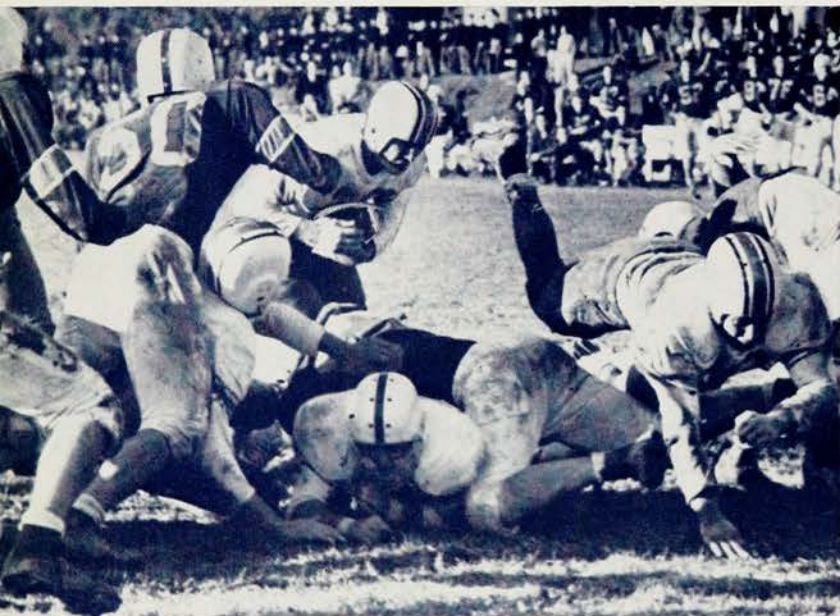

STOP THAT MAN! Mike Sommer sprints through the entire VPI secondary on his way to a 78-yard touchdown.

Two's Company, Three's a Crowd, but so Many Men—We "Ain't" Got a Chance

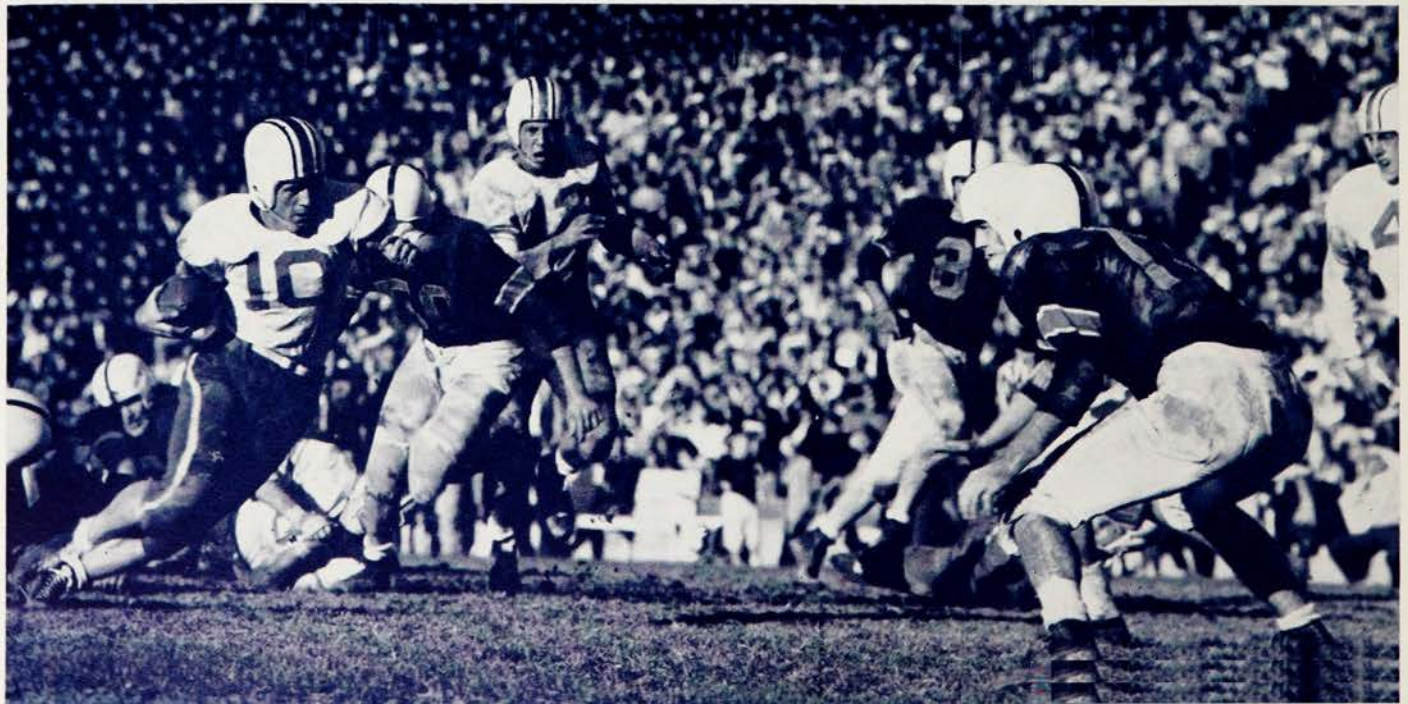

"He's mine; no, let me tackle him." An unidentified GW backfield man gets his jersey ripped and his pants dirtied as two opponents fight for the "honor" of bringing him down.

Where there's a will, there's a way! Bill Weaver crashes through for a score.

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." Johnny Saffer makes his move during a five-yard jaunt!

again showed their strength. With Skinny Saffer leading the way from the Colonial 49, the Buff and Blue cracked over from the two, eight plays later.

A Homecoming crowd of over 20,000 enthusiastic rooters watched the Colonials play a highly favored West Virginia eleven to a standstill before succumbing to a fourth period score and drop a 13-7 contest. With the Colonial defense stalling the nation's top offensive unit, the Buff put on a dazzling show of fighting spirit and almost pulled out the upset of the year before an intercepted pass on the Mountaineer five ended all GW hopes in the waning minutes of the game.

Mike Sommer stunned the crowd when he took a Sturm handoff early in the first period, cut off tackle and with a tremendous burst of speed traveled 89 yards to paydirt to give the Colonials a 7-0 lead. Held for too long, the Mountaineers finally got going. With Bob Moss, Joe Marconi, and Larry Krutko biting telling chunks of yardage the Colonials gave up two second half TD's, one on a 98 yard sustained drive.

The Colonials were also blowing opportunities of their own. Three times, once on an interception, once on a fumble, and once on a poor West Virginia boot, the Colonials drove deep into Mountaineer territory. However, each time the giant West Virginia line led by All-American Bruce Bosley and tackle Sam Huff threw the Buff back. Then in the waning minutes of the game Quarterback Bob Sturm hit Paul Thompson on three straight aeriels and Mike Sommer hauled one in deep in Mountaineer territory. But the Mountaineers intercepted a Looney aerial and thus secured the Southern Conference title.

It is said that lightning never strikes in the same place twice. However it did to the Colonials in the form of the University of Richmond football team led by their great little quarterback, Tommy Theodose.

Though GW outgained, outplayed, and outstatistised the Spiders, they couldn't outscore them. As was the story last season the Spiders punched over a TD and sat back and thwarted every Colonial effort. In the second period Theodose accounted for 35 of a 52 yard Richmond scoring drive. Left halfback Lou Wacker wacked over from the two for the only touchdown all day.

Orange Bowl bound Maryland closed out their third unbeaten season in five years against the Colonials 19-0, despite four interceptions by the alert GW defense.

A snow bound crowd of 20,000 watched the Colonials dominate the second half only to see the Buff thwarted three times—once on the six-inch-line, the 16, and the 19.

Maryland got their first score following the opening kickoff. Quarterback Lynn Beightol hit End Russ Dennis with a 41 yard scoring toss before the game was four minutes old. A GW fumble on their own 27 led to the second Terp tally midway through the first period. Halfback Ed Vereb scored from the one. Vereb also capped the third Terp scoring thrust in the second period when he went over from four yards out capping a 60 yard drive.

Thus the season ended. The boys acquitted themselves well, but what's more, they gave indication of better things to come.

REVIEW OF SEASON

Led by the mighty all-American Joe Holup, George Washington's fine basketball team has gone through another successful year. The team ended their regular season schedule with a record of 19 wins and 7 losses.

In the beginning of the season, the Colonials played up to the expectations of their rooters; they won their first six games including impressive victories over Wake Forrest and West Virginia. The West Virginia victory was perhaps one of the sweetest, as it averaged the loss handed to us in last year's Southern Conference final. The Buff and Blue sauntered up to New York to play a lowly rated Manhattan University five, and they dejectedly returned home with a stinging 71-63 defeat. This proved to be the beginning of a "better-to-be-forgotten" period for the G Streeters.

The team started the new year right by capturing the Maryland University Invitational Tournament crown, but promptly fell back into their slump by dropping a humiliating 62-48 contest to Maryland. In beating Michigan State for the Maryland Invitational crown, the Reinhart men defeated one of the nation's highest ranked teams. This victory was influential in boosting up our national ranking. Maryland's highly inspired Terrapins played like a team possessed, and completely outplayed the Colonials. This incomprehensible slump continued for another week, and the Colonials were beaten by both Richmond and V.P.I.

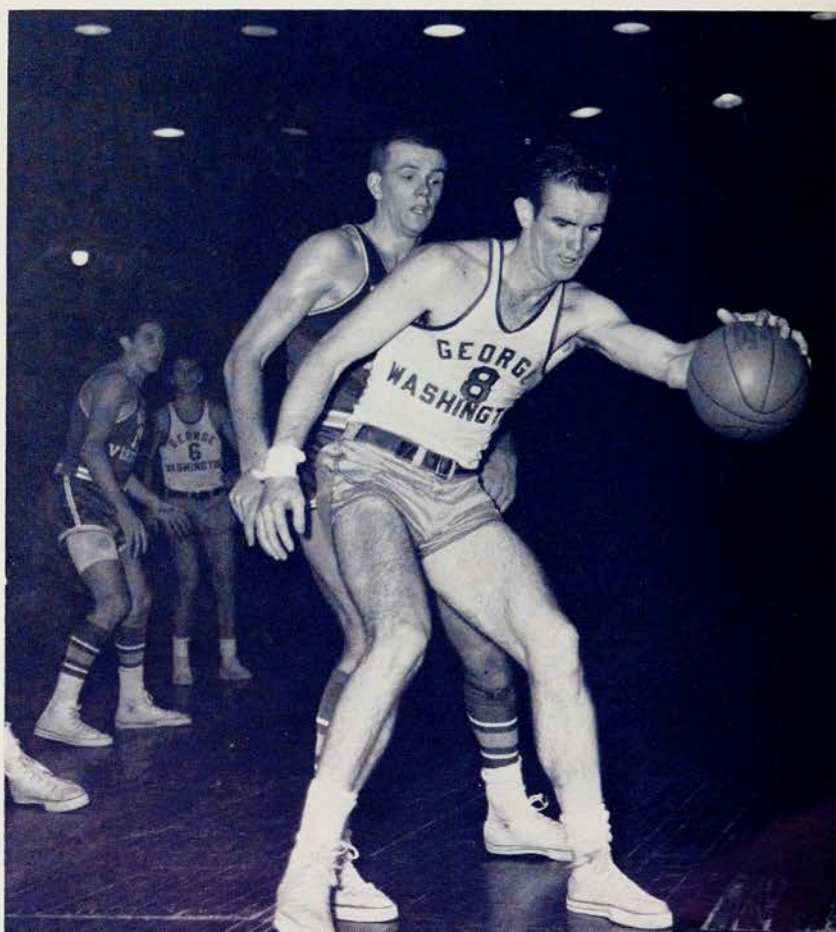

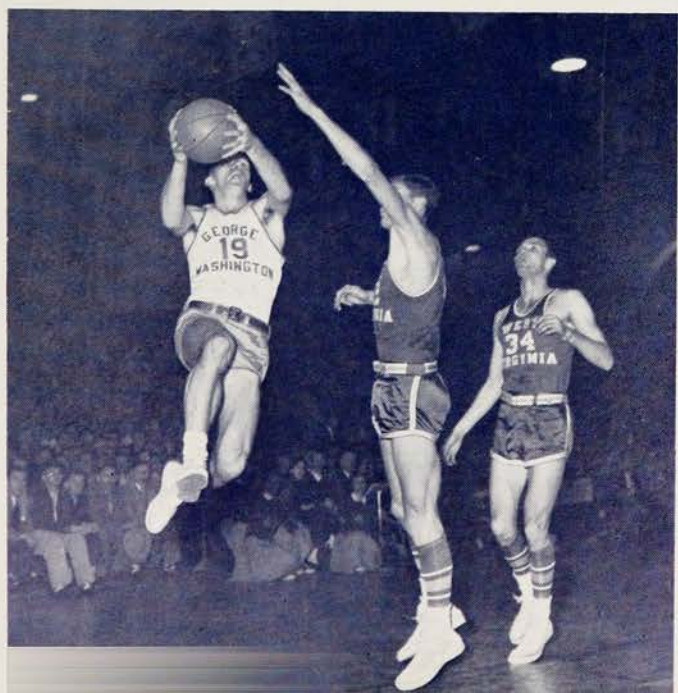

Returning to their winning ways, the Colonials won their next four games, including victories over both Richmond and V.P.I. They then ran into their Nemis again from College Park and lost 67 to 46.

The Buff and Blue finished the remainder of the season in fine fashion, winning five while losing only one.

LEFT: No, not toe dancing! George Klein's just on tip toes to get a better look before he goes up for a shot.

Joe Petcavitch defies the old adage that a man is better with his two feet on the ground as he sails past two West Virginia players for a basket.

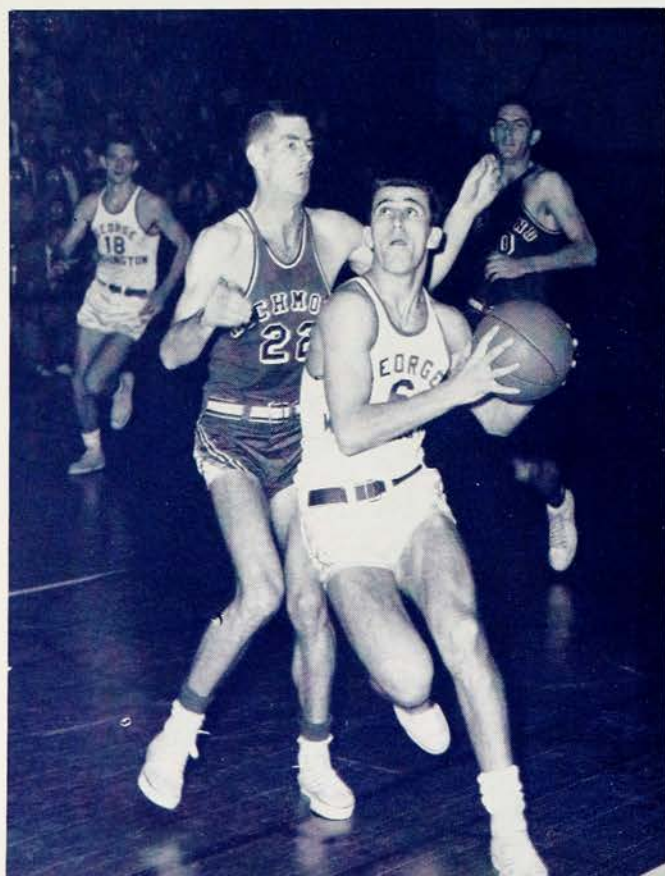

Jay Manning's a little backward about coming forward, but who cares—a few seconds later he had 2 points.

"Gosh, he's big!" seems to be what Maryland players would like to say as Jack Jolly goes up over their heads for a jump shot.

"Oops, pardon me, Bill. After you!" Bill Telasky goes right by a Richmond defender.

One sad note to add is that by winning only two of the four games played in the "Big Three" competition, George Washington loses the beautiful trophy which has decorated the entrance of the Student Union the past year. This trophy is awarded to that member of the "Big Three" (G.W., Georgetown, and Maryland) who compiles the best record in games played against each other. Last year this trophy was awarded to G.W., whose record against the other two was unblemished, but in the process of losing two games to Maryland this year, the Colonials virtually handed the trophy to the Terps.

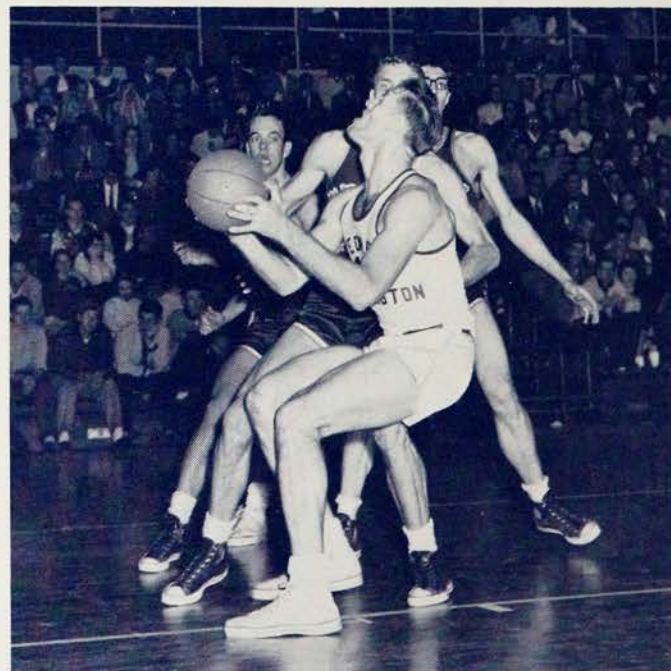

This season has been one of considerable strain on the egotistical prognosticators. After predicting a highly successful season for the Colonials, they were given a rude shock by our loss to Manhattan. Figuring that any team could have an off night, these optimistic sportsmen still stuck to their convictions, but by mid-season their predictions proved false, and they were forced to drop us from the list of top teams.

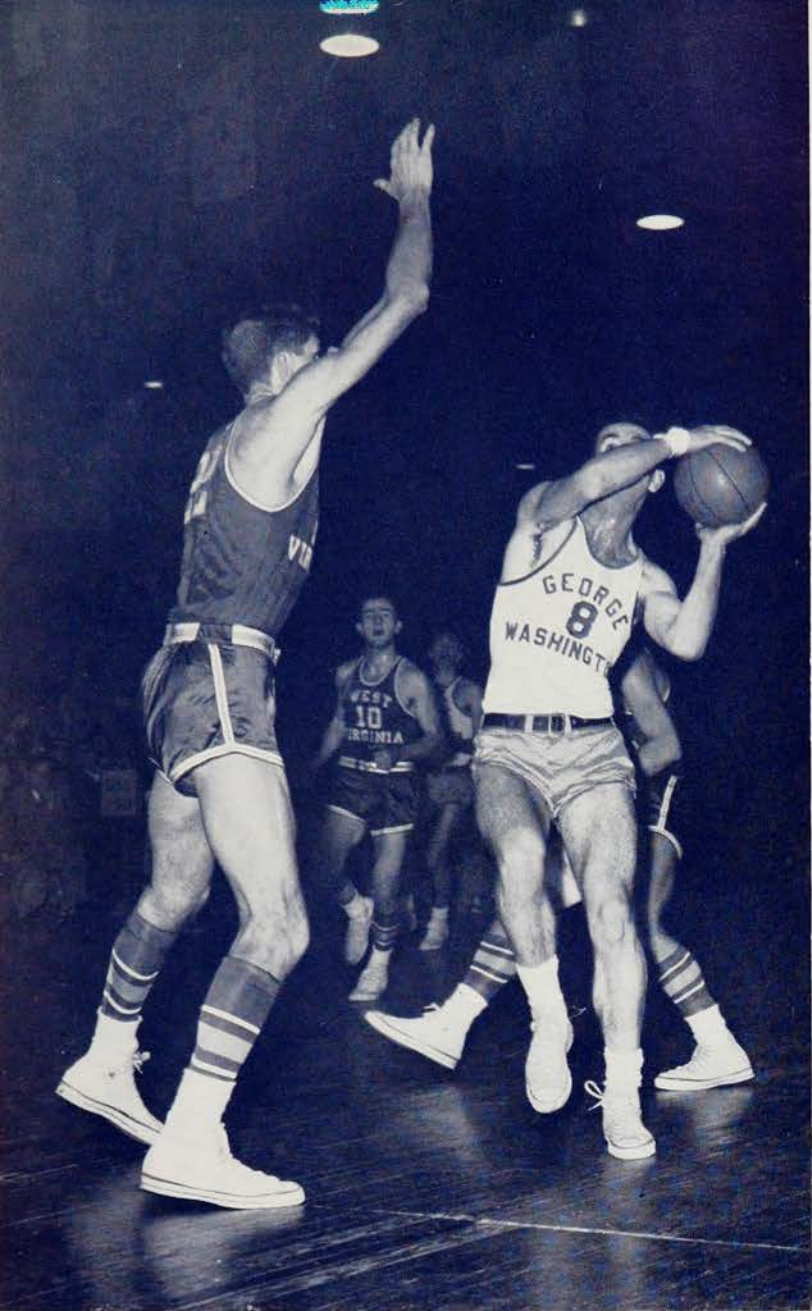

As the record shows, we have gone through another successful season. We had five good starters and a fairly strong bench. Even though we didn't make the N.C.A.A. Tournament, our team gave us plenty of thrills and action.

Next year's prospects seem very bright. Returning from this year's varsity are Ardie Baker, Bob Goodwin, John Jolly, Ron Matalavage, Bill Telasky, Bob Sweeney, and Dick Young. The men will probably be helped by Richard Carroll, Jerry Cooper, Ronnie Dearden, Ken Eriksson, Bill Giankakis, Robert Kean, Sam Knisley, and Don Rhine—all up from J.V. team.

Joe Holup, 6' 6" center and co-captain from Swoyersville, Pennsylvania. Joe led the ball club in almost every department. Among the many achievements this year was joining that very small and select group of players who have scored over 2,000 points in their college career. Against the University of Richmond, Joe set a new G.W. individual scoring record with 47 points, and less than two weeks later he amassed the total of 49 points against Furman. Our All-American also led the nation in rebounds and in field goal accuracy. By the end of the season, Joe had compiled enough points

What comes down must go up again—and for 2 points Joe Holup gets set to throw up a rebound.

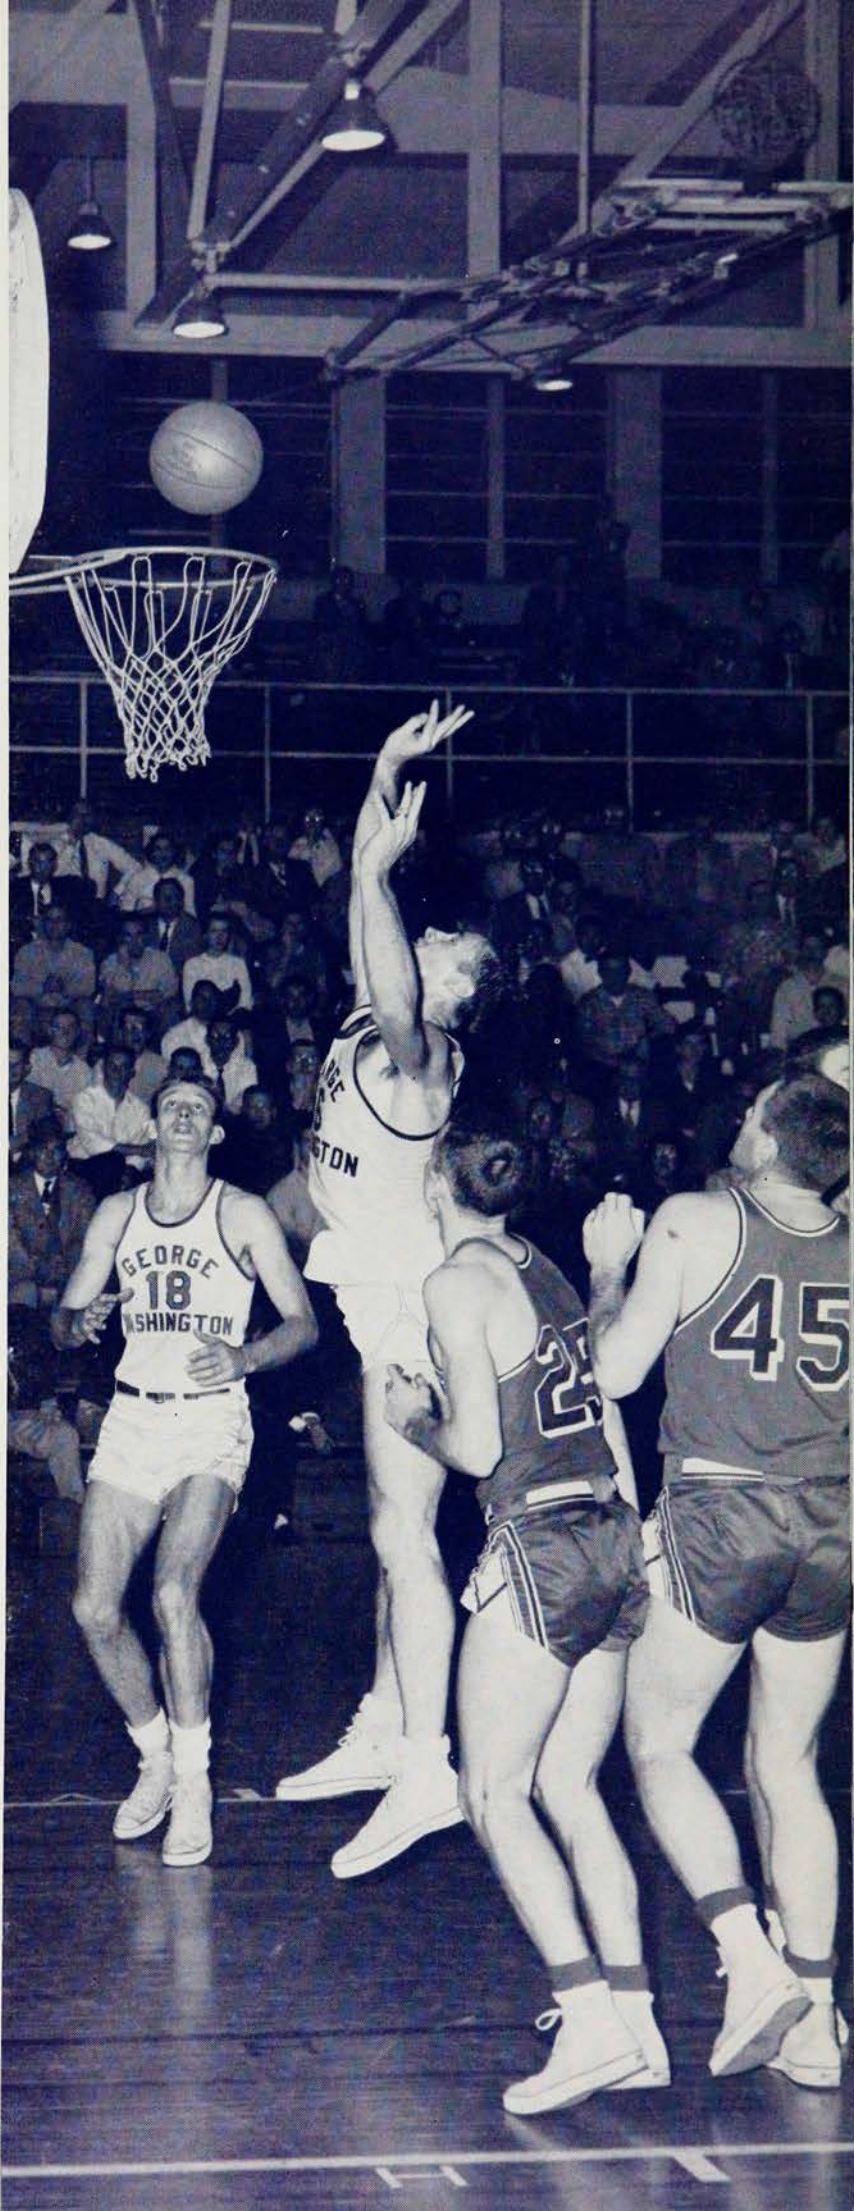

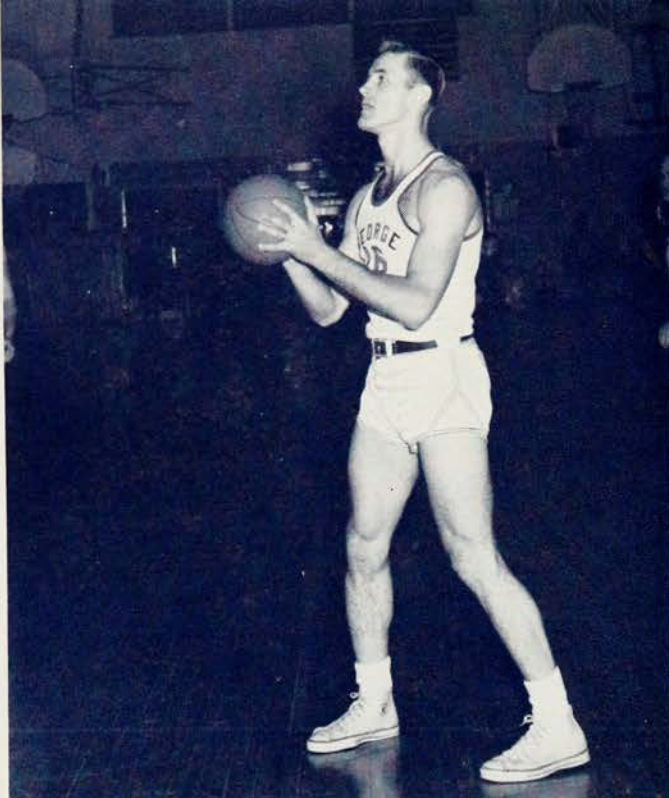

Two hands for beginners like Freshman Bill Telasky—two hands and two points, though.

to become the sixth leading scorer in the history of organized collegiate basketball. Besides his scoring ability, Joe was also one of the country's leading rebounders. Joe Holup graduates this June and will be a valuable asset to the lucky professional team that signs him.

George Klein, 5' 10" guard from Far Rockaway, New York. George was the co-captain and defensive wizard of this year's squad. George's defensive ability always overshadowed his offensive potentiality, but when Georgetown University tripled teamed Joe Holup, George scored 24 points, which was the big factor in defeating the Hoyas. This feat was also impressive because it was George's last regular season game as a college player. Still another point that makes this feat remarkable was that George had injured his ankle in a previous game and had only participated infrequently in his last few games. George climaxed his college career at G.W. by making the All Southern Conference Team.

RIGHT: Confucius say, "Under basket, he who reaches highest scores most points." Joe Holup taps a GW shot in as he reaches far above everyone else.

Picture of an All American (note the concentration). Joe Holup takes aim from the outside.

Sometimes you just can't win!—Especially with two men covering you. Joe Petcavitch gets hemmed in by Maryland and appears to have little chance of getting his shot off.

Jay Manning, 6' 4" forward from Washington, D. C. Jay started this season in tremendous fashion, averaging about 15 points in the first six games. As the season progressed, however, Jay "cooled off," but towards the end of the year again perked up. His fine ball stealing and fast breaking in the Georgetown game and his outstanding play against W&L in the Southern Conference playoffs were probably the highlights of Jay's season.

Joe Petcavitch, 6' 5" forward from Carbondale, Pennsylvania. Joe had another good season; he consistently scored in double figures, captured many rebounds, and in the early part of the season, led the country in shooting accuracy. Besides his fine layup and jump shot, Joe added a sweeping hook shot to his repertoire this year. Joe continually delighted the fans in pre-game warmups with his colorful "dunking."

Bill Telasky, 6' 2" guard from Albany, New York. Coach Reinhart pulled one of the biggest surprises of the year when he started this talented freshman in the opening game, and Bill's fine playing has proven Reinhart's strategy sound. Ending the season with a better than 10 point average, Bill will be one of the standouts on next year's squad.

John Jolly, 6' 6" forward from Rockport, Indiana. Big John had a very fine season, and he will be a big star on next year's team. Consistently improving throughout the season, John occasionally was inserted into the starting lineup, and gave a very good account of himself.

Ardie Baker, 5' 10" guard from Washington, D. C. Ardie was used this season as a playmaker and he did a very commendable job. Besides his playmaking ability, Ardie's speed will make him a valuable addition to next year's team.

Ron Matalavage, 6' 3" forward from Luzerne, Pennsylvania. Graduating from the J.U.'s in mid-season, Ron's defensive ability prompted Coach Reinhart to start him in certain games. Having three more years to play, Ron should become a big star for G.W.

It's all part of the game—the foot, that is. Joe Petcavitch drives under the Tech basket for 2 points.

CHEERLEADERS

The University Cheerleaders are sponsored by the Office of Men's Activities. This year's squad led the students in cheering at football and basketball games and at the pep rallies. Colonial Boosters helps the squad by passing out pompons and booster cards at the games. These all add up to more pep and school spirit among G.W.U. students.

Tryouts are held each spring with two weeks of preparation and training before hand. The new squad is selected by a panel of judges chosen by the captain of the cheerleading squad.

Its a lot of fun, but a lot of work for the cheerleaders, but through it all the students can count on them for a job well done.

"He who hesitates is lost." A hesitated throw to the plate by a Maryland infielder (not shown) arrives too late to stop a GW score.

Baseball last year with the Colonials was more or less a touch-and-go matter. Riddled with injuries to key men in the lineup, the Buff nevertheless did themselves and their coach, Bill Rhinehart, justice.

With Roger Turner leading the way on the mound, the Colonials' squad finished second in the Southern Conference with a record and an overall season slate of 12 wins and 6 losses. Supporting Turner's fine hurling performances were Ray Looney at first base who made the All-Southern Conference team, "Skinny" Saffer, who did a superb job behind the plate besides filling in at many other positions when needed; Bob Rossani and Joe DiAmbrosio in the outfield; and Jerry Paperella at shortstop who sparked the infield with his fine fielding and hitting.

The Colonials' season record was no indication of the calibre of their team. Despite injuries all through the year, Coach Rhinehart did a terrific job of juggling his lineup in a fashion similar to Casey Stengel's New York Yankees. Even though Rhinehart didn't have quite the same success as Stengel had, he did manage to give the Buff a good season, and at no time during the year were the Colonials found to be without hustle and spirit. Withal, the Colonials were in the Southern Conference race to the end, only losing out in the next to the last contest. Give and take a bit, most observers of the GW team in 1955 would have to agree that it was a team to be proud of in many ways.

Next year the Colonials expect bigger and better things in the way of a winning season. Several of the brighter stars for this year's squad will be returning along with several new prospects.

SAILING

After a fabulous record in 1954, the Colonials sailing team under the expert coaching of George Collins found that the old adage of "Tomorrow is another day" meant "Tomorrow is a better day" in their case.

Starting off in the "Beer Cup" Regatta at Princeton, the Colonials found the Tigers stiff competition for their oarsmen as they sailed to a second-place finish on a chilly March 27 day.

In a "Haxagonal" meet with the Georgetown, Lehigh, Maryland, Princeton, and the University of Virginia, the Colonials once again found the competition not too tough as they walked away with their first victory in a very tight race.

With these two fine showings under their belt, the Buff "sailors" ran through an extremely tough schedule which included meets with such teams as Georgetown, Navy, Maryland, Haverford, the Middle Atlantic Championship finals, and the Spring Invitational with New England and Midwest entries, in fine fashion.

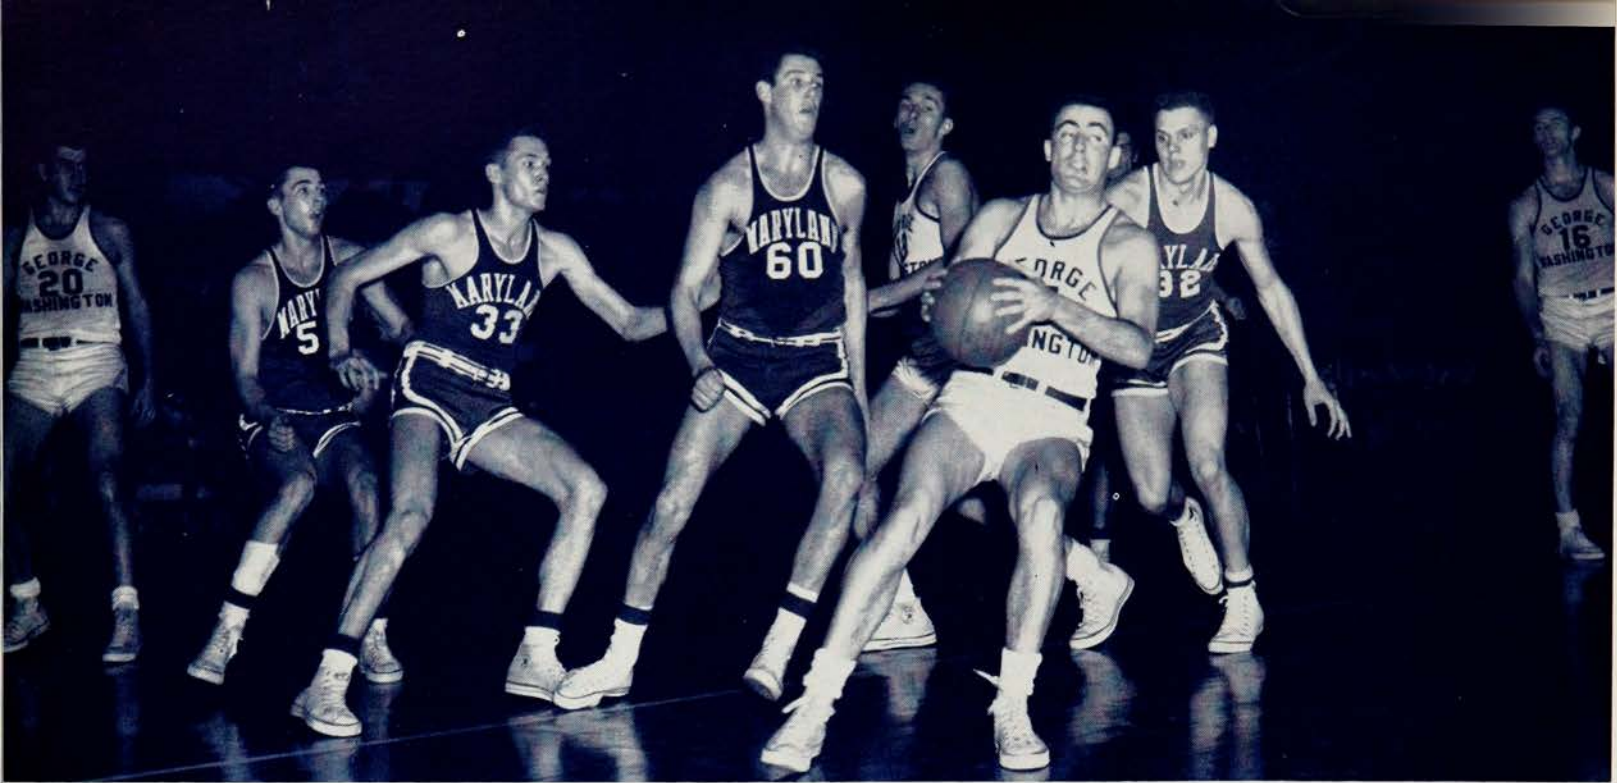

Even better prospects for next year seem to be in the limelight as several of the Colonial oarsmen will be returning. With Coach Collins once again at the helm, sailing at GW should continue to be one of the brighter aspects of the Colonials' undertakings. Any way you look at it, the 1955 sailing team was one of the finest squads GW has had in a long time and certainly followed in the footsteps of last year's successful team.

SPORT HIGHLIGHTS OF THE YEAR

"The long throw gets him."

GOLF

Splitting even in twelve matches the Colonial golfers showed a fine brand of play all year long and finally finished in fourth place in the Southern Conference Tourney which was won by Washington and Lee whom GW had beaten earlier. With Coach George Diffenbaugh at the helm, the Colonials sparked by Larry Spellman, Jim Clark (who placed third in individual play in the Southern Conference Tourney), Hubert Huff and Irv Salmay, beat the likes of VMI, W and L, Western Maryland, Virginia and Maryland.

However, the Colonial golfers were better than their 500% record seems to show. Several close matches went against the Buff and at times hard luck spelled defeat where victory seemed assured. Many observers feel that last year's squad had more potential than many in some time but really never quite reached their peak.

Next season, only Buddy Watwood and Jack Vaile will be lost, the top four men this year returning. This should give the Colonials a fine start in building a real winner.

You should see them on the tee! G. Diffenbaugh, L. Spellman, W. Renick, I. Salmay, J. Peake, B. Watwood, V. Bartlett.

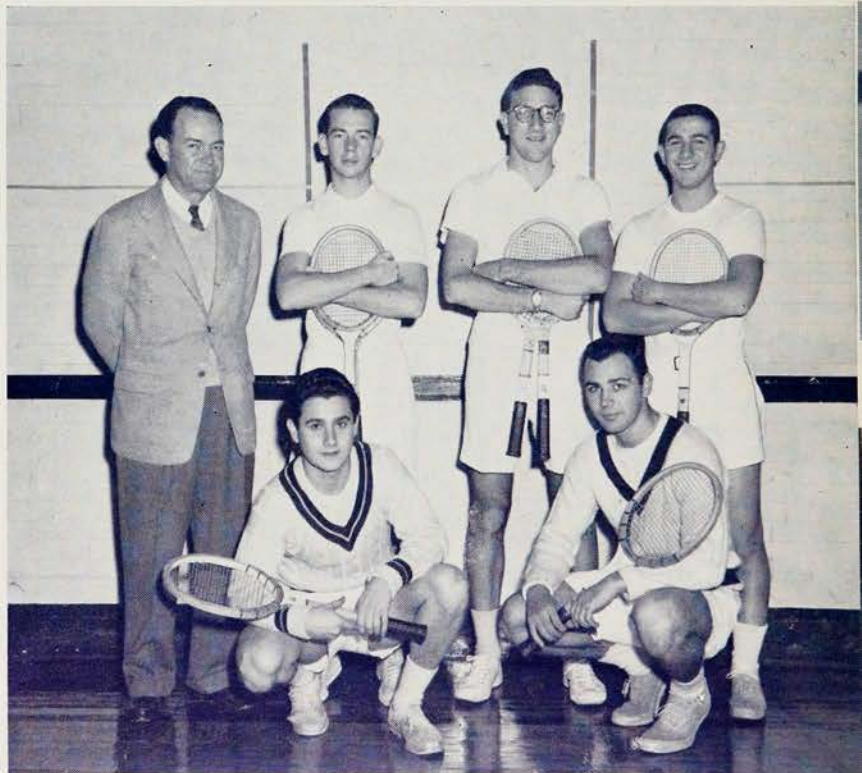

TENNIS

The Colonials' tennis squad last year had more of their team on the sick list on the court. With Bill Steiner, Ken Garrison, and Herb Rappeport either ill or on the sick list, the Buff fielded a team that usually never was at full strength. Even so, Coach Bill Schrieve still managed to juggle his lineup enough to win six and lose seven. In Southern Conference play, the Buff came out in ninth place, winning four and losing two.

With the sterling play of Steiner, Garrison, and Rappeport leading the way, the Colonials found the likes of West Virginia, William and Mary, and other conference teams not too tough as they went through their year. Bill Wilson, Mickey Boteler and Bill Russel rounded out the squad and all played steady tennis. Rappeport, Boteler and Russel will be back next season to give GW a superb nucleus for a fine team.

Despite injuries, the Colonials played excellent tennis all year, especially Rappeport, Garrison, and Steiner when they were avail-

MEN'S INTRAMURALS

VINCENT J. DeANGELIS
Director of Men's Intramurals

The object of intramural sports is to provide a program of activities that will meet the nature, needs, and capacities of the students of George Washington University.

Under the capable direction of Prof. Vincent J. DeAngelis, an intensive intramural athletic program was presented to George Washington U. Aiding Mr. DeAngelis were student assistants, Ellen Raley, Morris ("Monk," "Moose") Casper, and Cecil Charles.

A breakdown of events included touch football, basketball, swimming, boxing, softball, and track as the major sports. Bowling, foul shooting, wrestling, badminton, volleyball, table tennis, golf, and tennis constituted the minor sports.

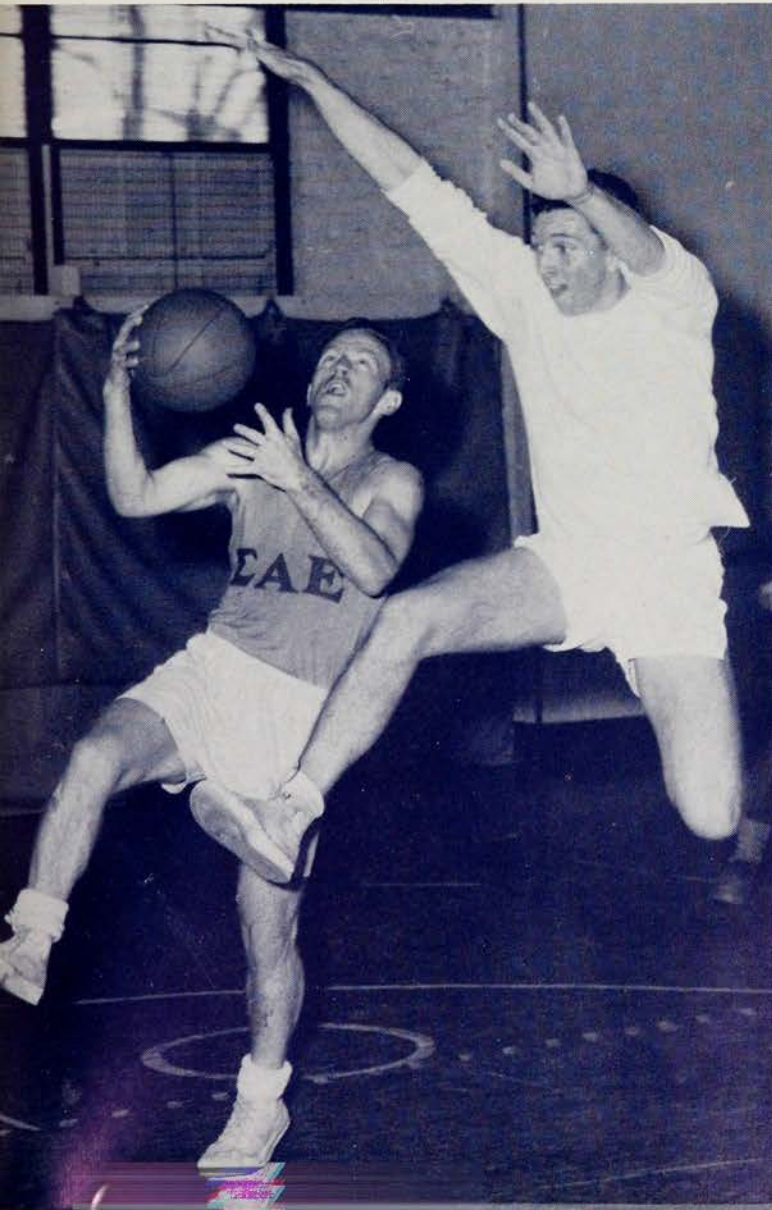

Trophies were given to the winning team in each sport, and to the outstanding men participating in the various individual events. Three major awards were presented by the intramural department. The All-University Team Achievement Award, conducted on a point basis for successful competition went to Phi Alpha. The All-University Individual Participation Award, won by John Harrison of Sigma Nu, was given to the individual accumulating the highest number of total points in competition. The Sportsmanship Award, based on team participation, spectator participation and sportsmanship, was presented to Pi Kappa Alpha.

The Intramural Department would like to extend its thanks and appreciation to the members of the Physical Education staff, to the student representatives of the organizations (who participated in the program throughout the year), whose generous cooperation helped make the Intramural Program a success.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

The department of physical education for women sponsors a wide variety of sports for women. Activities such as basketball, bowling, badminton, canoeing, field hockey, ice skating, riding, riflery, softball, tennis and volleyball are an integral part of student life.

Badminton and basketball take place in the university gym during the winter months. Life saving and swimming, including synchronized swimming, are taught at the YWCA pool. Chartered buses take the girls to Haines Point in the fall and spring where they engage in the outdoor sports. Facilities for ice skating, riding and bowling are found nearby; the rifle range is located on the campus.

Basketball, hockey, riflery and tennis are extramural as well, with games and matches played with other schools in the surrounding area. The sports season is culminated
